Ashville Lass In Coma for 6 Months, Dies

An uphill fight for a normal life that included four delicate heart operations in five years and a six-month coma ended in death for a 10-year-old Ashville area girl Wednesday evening.

Joanie Pobst, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gaylon Pobst, Route 2, Ashville, died in Children's Hospital following a life-long battle with heart disease.

An autopsy will be performed to determine the exact causes of death. She was admitted to Children's Hospital earlier Wednesday.

Her last operation was in January when an infection she was sensitive to further damaged her heart. Doctors told Mr. and Mrs. Pobst that Joanie had a bad heart from the age of three.

SINCE her last operation in which her heart had stopped and had to be revived by massage, she lay in a coma at her home.

Joanie was in the third grade at Scioto Elementary School.

Survivors include her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gaylon Pobst; sisters, Brenda Gale and Diana Lynn of the home; and a maternal grandmother, Mrs. Grace Hoover.

She was preceded in death by a sister, Carol Sue, who died several years ago of cancer.

Services will be 2:30 p. m. Saturday at Bastian Funeral Home, Ashville, with the Rev. William Sheretz officiating. Burial will be in Harrison Township Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Friday.

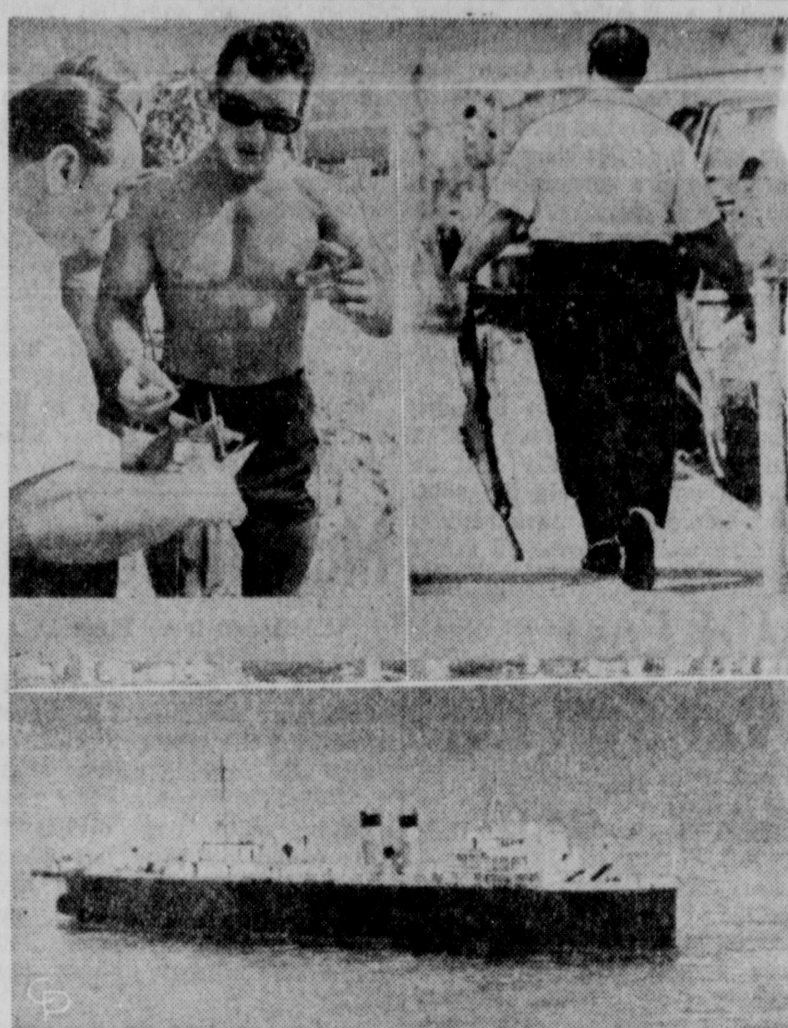

Election of New School Board Is Authorized

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes signed an emergency law effective today requiring the election next November of a new 24-member state board of education.

The present board has 23 members elected in congressional districts before they were revised to create a 24th district. Terms of all present members expire next Dec. 31.

Members of the new board will be elected to serve six-year terms on a staggered basis. At the first organization meeting, they will draw lots for one-third of the board to serve two-year terms, and another third to serve four-year terms. The remaining eight would serve eight-year terms and all those elected thereafter will serve full six-year terms.

Another legislative enactment signed into law provides uniform pay for precinct registrars and bans Sunday voter registrations. The new law becomes effective Oct. 12.

Russia May Stall Weapons Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials say the Soviet Union may delay a proposed treaty to ban the spread of nuclear weapons because of further opposition to U.S. foreign policy.

These officials expected a final draft treaty to be drawn up shortly after the Glassboro, N.J., summit conference last month between President Johnson and Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

But there now are indications the draft will not be submitted until after Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko returns to Moscow from New York where he is attending a United Nations debate on the Middle East.

Coupled with Soviet cancellation of a scheduled U.S. tour for a Soviet dance group, some U.S. authorities see the nonproliferation treaty delay as part of a pattern of deliberate Kremlin recalcitrance on dealings with the United States.

The State Department said Wednesday the Soviets had postponed indefinitely the visit of the 200-member dance troupe because of the "international situation." The summer tour was to be part of the U.S.-Soviet cultural exchange program.

Washington officials believe the cancellation is intended as a further display of Soviet opposition to U.S. policy in the Middle East and Vietnam.

There is speculation in U.S. government ranks now about how tough an anti-U.S. line the Soviets will pursue in coming months. It is believed here that a debate is under way among Soviet leaders on domestic, military and foreign affairs issues, with the outcome likely to affect U.S.-Soviet relations.

Public agreement on the importance of a nonproliferation act was a highlight of the Glassboro talks. Provisions of the proposed treaty had been the subject of extended discussions between the two nuclear powers.

Kamper, a 29-year-old printer, was sentenced to 21 months in prison.

'Kiss of Death' Lands Him in Jail

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — As they discussed breaking their engagement, Gisela Dinger told Wilfried Kamper she still loved him. He hugged her tight, kissed her and suddenly she was dead, he told the court.

A medical examiner described it as a "reflex death," similar to that caused by a rabbit punch. Kamper's attorney cited the case of a German army lieutenant who, returning to Frankfurt during World War II, hugged his girl friend so tight that he broke her neck.

The court reduced the charge today from causing intentional bodily injury with fatal consequences, which carries at least a three-year prison term, to negligent homicide.

Problems of Ghetto

BOSTON (AP) — The problems of slum violence and law enforcement are holding center stage at the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People's 58th annual convention.

Speaker after speaker, from executive director Roy Wilkins to both Massachusetts senators, have risen to denounce government officials, state and federal, who refuse to vigorously enforce civil rights laws.

Many of the 2,000 delegates also say they are worried about whether the NAACP is effective enough in reaching the city dwellers who see that violence brings jobs and sudden concern about slum problems.

Long-time observers say they sense a determination at this convention to reach deep into the urban ghetto.

"We've been winning the legal fight but losing the economic battle," said labor director Herbert Hill, who has worked on a proposed resolution aimed at this problem.

Hill announced Wednesday a nationwide attempt to hold up government construction funds for any project where Negroes do not get their "full and fair share" of building trades union craft jobs.

For years, he said, the NAACP has been trying without success to "end job control in the building trades by the lily-white craft unions," even though a federal executive order allowing government funds to be withheld in cases of discrimination has been on the books since 1962.

The order, reissued a stronger form by President Johnson, has never been enforced, he said, "an example of administrative nullification of the law." Now, he said, a federal court decision in Ohio makes states responsible for seeing that Negroes are fairly employed eliminates the need to rely on the executive order.

Taft Asks OEO Be Abolished

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, called today for the abolishment of the Office of Economic Opportunity and the transfer of its functions to other agencies.

Taft said he had no quarrel with the objectives of the federal anti-poverty program. But, he said, efforts should be made to streamline, eliminate duplication and improve the program.

Taft said a bill he is sponsoring would create a three-member Council of Economic Opportunity Advisors to the president.

U.S. Warplanes Ravage Enemy Stronghold in DMZ

SAIGON (AP) — Waves of B-52 bombers pounded North Vietnamese positions inside the demilitarized zone today for the first time in two months.

The giant bombers, each carrying 50,000 pounds of explosives, made three raids during the day on the northern half of the six-mile-wide zone between North and South Vietnam.

Their targets were the fortifications and artillery positions from which the North Vietnamese have been inflicting a heavy toll on U.S. Marine and South Vietnamese units just below the zone.

This toll was reflected in weekly casualty figures announced today which showed 282 Americans killed last week, the third highest death count for a seven-day period this year. But the U.S. Command said 2,114 Communist troops were killed last week, nearly double the 1,331 reported killed the week before and the highest enemy weekly toll in a month.

It was also reported that 1,170 U.S. servicemen were wounded and one was missing last week. South Vietnamese casualties were 158 killed, 460 wounded and 29 missing.

Just below the zone, South Vietnamese infantrymen reported

ed killing 76 Communist troops in brisk fighting on Wednesday near the forward allied outpost at Gio Linh.

The South Vietnamese reported their own casualties were light in the 4½-hour fight about five miles below the demilitarized zone.

In the U.S. air offensive against North Vietnam, Air Force bombers returned to the MIG airbase at Hoa Lac 20 miles west of Hanoi Wednesday for the 11th time this year. Reconnaissance photos showed no planes on the field; instead dummy models were installed in parking revetments, apparently as decoys to lure American planes into antiaircraft fire.

During their raids on the field Wednesday, Air Force pilots claimed destruction or damage to a number of buildings and to two antiaircraft sites.

The raids Wednesday cost the Americans one plane, a Navy A4 Skyhawk which was shot down, but the pilot was rescued. The plane was the 603rd announced combat loss over North Vietnam.

The Air Force lost another plane in South Vietnam, an F100 Supersabre jet shot down while making a bombing run Wednesday 16 miles south of Saigon. The pilot is missing. This was the 192nd combat loss of a U.S. plane in the South, U.S. Command said.

Bargain Bits

Full cooperation from the weatherman, at least until early afternoon, combined with loads of bargains offered by local merchants spelled "success" for the sixth annual old-fashioned Sidewalk Sales. "Perfectly beautiful," was the typical remark concerning today's weather.

More to come . . . Hourly drawings of gifts offered by local merchants got underway at 4 p. m. The drawings are to continue until 9 p. m. Some of the gifts include a side of beef, radios, lamps, jewelry, buffet server, etc. By the way, we goofed. In listing participating merchants of the gifts program in Wednesday's edition, Koch-heiser Hardware was omitted.

Also on the schedule for the remainder of the day are performances by five rock 'n' roll bands. The groups will be performing in various areas of the business district. They are the Shandells, the Sonas, the Back Base Society, the Roundtowners and the Celler Dwellers.

Local residents are still comparing the atmosphere of the Sidewalk Sales with that of the Pumpkin Show.

Nolan Placed Among Five Most Wanted

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio attorney general's office has placed Edson Lee Nolan, 24, who escaped from Franklin County jail July 4, on the state's list of five most wanted criminals. Nolan, prior to his escape, had been convicted of robbing a Ross County branch bank.

Others now on the wanted list are Howard Swiney, 45, wanted by Toledo police for assault with a deadly weapon; Donald Ferrell, 25, wanted by Warrensville Heights police for felonious assault; Billy Jean Rhoades, 35, wanted as a parole violator, and Jack Wethington, 32, wanted by Cincinnati police for robbery and assault with intent to kill.

The sidewalk event was originated here six years ago as a goodwill gesture by merchants and has grown by leaps and bounds. Are merchants happy with the results? You bet your booties!

The FOP's fish stand had sold 250 pounds of fish by noon Thursday. Operated by local officers, the booth will stay open until "all the fish is sold." Estimates show there are 550 pounds left for the evening rush.

Articles presented at reduced prices by the merchants included just about everything, from vintage neckties which were popular with the younger set, to golf clubs for their dads.

The south side of West Main, from Court nearly to Scioto Street was packed solidly with shoppers, and appeared to be the hub of activity.

Among the bargain seekers was George D. McDowell, who made an early morning purchase of a coffee cake, a banana cake and a pumpkin pie at the bake shop. Shortly before noon he was happily pondering whether to buy two fish sandwiches at the Fraternal Order of Police fish fry booth for lunch, or whether to buy one at noon and another later in the day.

Observers unanimously agreed the crowd was much larger than last year when an oppressive heat wave chased many of the shoppers from the pavements by noon.

Zoo Patrons Asked To Walk Carefully

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP) — Visitors at Nay Aug Park are warned to be on the lookout for a dangerous alligator.

The three-foot-long 'gator escaped from the park zoo and was spotted Wednesday by two men as it was heading through nearby woods towards Roaring Brook River.

A search party of park employees combed the woods and dragged the river Wednesday without any luck.

McNamara Sees No Need For Callup

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara says he's "not sure how many" more U.S. troops must be sent to Vietnam, but top military officers say privately at least 25,000 are required just to regain lost momentum.

McNamara, back from his ninth trip to Vietnam, told President Johnson Wednesday more Americans must be dispatched to the war-torn Southeast Asian nation. He said there's no need to call up reserves, however.

He said on arrival that "if we have additional men, the result would be a greater pressure being brought to bear on the enemy."

Military officers contend the U.S. war effort has lost momentum in recent weeks due to troop shifts toward Vietnam's so-called demilitarized zone. They say privately the manpower decisions now under consideration at the White House will determine whether the war's progress moves at its current pace, slows off or picks up.

McNamara told newsmen Wednesday 20,000 to 30,000 more men probably will be sent to Vietnam in the next 90 days as part of previously determined increases in manpower. But he said he did not know when a new force level decision would be reached.

He said 450,000 to 460,000 U.S. troops now are in Vietnam. President Johnson, the military believes, is faced with basically

Automakers Report Sales Up in July

DETROIT (AP)—The nation's automakers, gearing down for the changeover to production of 1968 models, found sales up eight per cent in the first 10 days of July compared to the same period a year ago.

Reports today showed all four companies had sales jumps ranging from slightly less than one per cent at Ford Motor Co. to 13 per cent at tiny American Motors Corp.

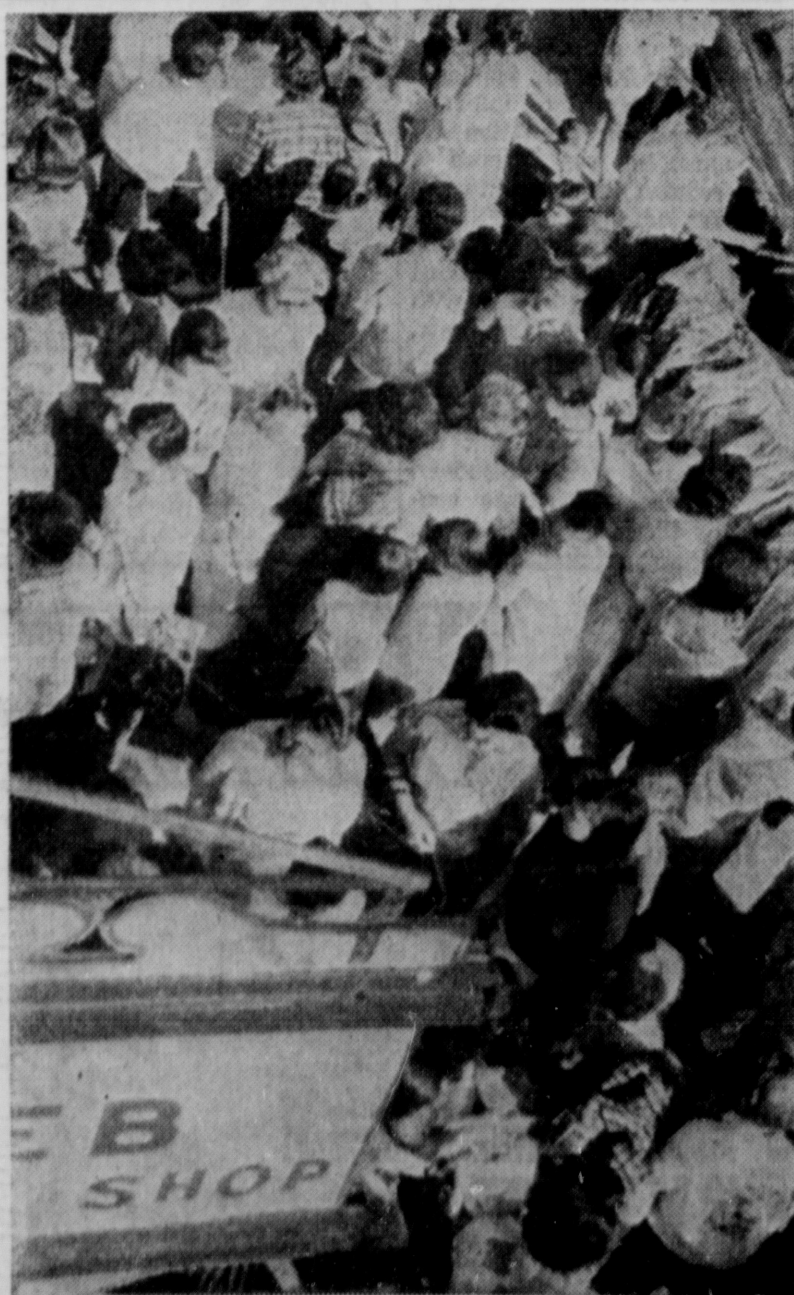

The sales increase apparently was the result of three factors: —Dealers, clearing their showrooms for the 1968 models, are offering clearance sales prices below usual prices.

—The industry says 1968 models will be more costly than this year's cars, causing some buyers to go for the less expensive 1967 models.

—There is speculation that a strike may result from this summer's auto-labor contract talks, making the 1968 models slow in coming.

General Motors Corp., giant of the industry, had sales up 11.8 per cent and Chrysler, smallest member of the big three showed a sales gain of 9 per cent over the July 1-10 period in 1966.

The comparisons were extra favorable this year because there were only seven selling days in the period against eight in the 1966 period.

EARLY SHOPPERS — Many eager shoppers crowded the streets of Circleville Thursday morning. The picture above was snapped about 15 minutes after the start of the sale at a shop on W. Main St.

NEFF'S RANGERS — Taking advantage of an outstanding bargain on vintage neckties at Caddy Miller's were members of NEFF'S RANGERS. Shown here with their selections are Terry Neff, Tom Shea, Bruce Diltz, who couldn't decide which one he liked and is wearing 4½ ties, Randy Hott and Bill Halstenberg.

Newark Negroes Use Rocks, Bombs In Police Protest

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Raging Negroes besieged a police station and demonstrated at City Hall late Wednesday and early today after a Negro taxi cab driver was arrested.

Rocks and firebombs were hurled at the police station.

A chanting, jeering crowd estimated by police at 200 persons assembled at the 4th Precinct police station in a predominantly Negro area about a mile west of downtown then moved downtown before police dispersed the group.

search and Development Laboratory as a staff scientist.

Wallach joined DuPont in 1960 as film researcher after receiving his BS degree in chemistry and PhD degree in physical chemistry from Wayne State University. He attended University of Strasbourg in France on a Fulbright Scholarship in polymer physics.

Wallach is a member of American Chemical Society, American Physical Society and Sigma Xi Fraternity. He and his wife Harriett have three children, Bonalynn, 7; Richard, 5; and Hillary, 3.

Charles C. Walker joined DuPont on June 21 as a research chemist. He received his BA degree in chemistry and MS degree in organic chemistry from John Carroll University.

CHARLES C. WALKER

He received a PhD degree in organic chemistry from Ohio State University.

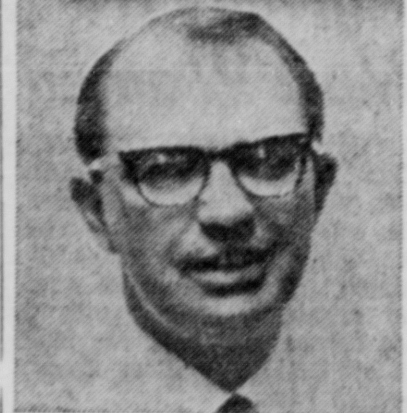

Walker was assistant professor of chemistry at Utica College of Syracuse University for two years. He is a member of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, American Chemical Society and American Assn. of University Professors.

Walker and his wife, Diane, reside at 2050 Chippewa Drive.

Paul J. Berrigan was recently transferred to Circleville Research and Development Laboratory. He was previously research supervisor at the Yerkes Laboratory in Buffalo, N. Y.

Berrigan received his BS degree in chemistry from Niagara University and his PhD in organic chemistry from Purdue University.

A member of the American Chemical Society and American Institute of Chemists, Berrigan and his wife, Loretta, have six children, Diane, 11; Kevin, 10; David, 9; Gregory, 7; Kathryn, 6; and Terry, 4.

Soviet Head Discounts China's Role in Vietnam

Ohio Financier, Kossygin Confer

DEEP COVE, Nova Scotia (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kossygin says the war in Vietnam is "susceptible to settlement, without the participation or endorsement of China," Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland industrialist said today in an interview.

"He was very positive about this," Eaton said.

At the same time, the financier continued, Kossygin links the Vietnamese war with the conflict between the Arabs and Israelis. The Soviet leader has demanded an "immediate withdrawal" of Israeli troops from Arab territory overrun in the fighting.

Eaton said he had a conversation lasting 4½ hours with Kossygin in Canada on June 30. The Soviet leader had conferred with President Johnson in Glassboro, N.J., and with Fidel Castro in Havana. He stopped in Canada en route to Paris where he met with President Charles de Gaulle. Eaton said Kossygin sent word to him through the Soviet Embassy in Washington, asking a meeting in Gander, Newfoundland.

The industrialist said Anatoly Doynitsyn of the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa served as the interpreter.

For more than 10 years, Eaton has been on cordial terms with the Soviet leaders. He received the Lenin Peace Prize in 1960. He frequently talked with Nikita S. Khrushchev and Anastas I. Mikoyan. Eaton said he has known Kossygin for about 10 years.

With respect to the Glassboro conferences, Eaton said, "He was pleased with reception in the United States and agreeably impressed with President Johnson."

"He felt that their meetings were constructive and helpful in terms of over-all objectives. Each presented his general view of the outstanding foreign problems."

"He is a consensus man, of course, and wants to report more fully to his associates. But I think he would welcome more talks with the President."

Eaton expressed the view that Moscow "will stand by North Vietnam with all resources, financial and military," adding, "They have their commitments to Vietnam and the Arabs and they can't be disregarded."

The industrialist said Kossygin told him he "felt they were on the verge of a settlement of the Vietnamese question" when the Soviet premier was in London last February, talking with Prime Minister Harold Wilson. "There was a formula," Eaton said, "but he did not go into details with me."

Eaton said Kossygin believes "the problems between China and Russia eventually will be worked out. He feels the solutions would come more rapidly if there were an over-all effort to reduce the tensions in the world and cut back the arms race."

Asked if he gathered that the Soviet leaders may be more frightened of Red China now that the Chinese have exploded nuclear devices, Eaton replied, sharply, "They're not afraid of anybody."

Eaton said Kossygin's position is "identical" with De Gaulle's in tying together the conflicts in Vietnam and the Middle East—a view rejected by Washington.

The industrialist declined to say what Kossygin told him about his talks with Castro.

Ashville Area Serviceman Commissioned

William A. Duvall, son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Duvall, Route 1, Ashville, was commissioned a Second Lieutenant at graduation exercises at the United States Army Artillery and Missile Officers' Candidate School, Ft. Sill, Oklahoma.

W. A. DUVALL

Lt. Duvall earned the recognition of being distinguished military graduate by placing in the top ten per cent of his class in leadership ratings and academically.

Entering the service in February 1966, Lt. Duvall completed his basic training and advanced individual training at Ft. Jackson, South Carolina.

While stationed at Ft. Jackson, Lt. Duvall applied and was accepted for Officers' Candidate School. His training began in November 1966.

AFTER receiving his commission in May, Lt. Duvall was stationed at Ft. Benning, Ga., where he received Airborne Training.

July 15, Duvall will leave for the Fifth Battalion, 81st Artillery, one of the few remaining Airborne Artillery units in Europe. He will be stationed in Biebrich-Weisbaden, Germany.

His wife, Carol, will join him at the end of August for the two-year stay.

No License Draws Fine

A Williamsport area woman was cited into Circleville Municipal Court and a second charge of operating a motor vehicle without an operator's license for the second time in less than three years.

On July 12, 1964, Virginia Jester, Route 2, Williamsport, was cited for having no license was handed a fine and three years' probation. Thursday she was again cited, just one day before her probation period was up.

Judge Sterling Lamb fined her $150 and costs, placed her in the county jail for 30 days with 27 days suspended and put her on probation for three years.

A total of 22 out-of-county motorists cited for traffic violations paid $433 in bonds fines and costs to Municipal Court. They included:

Sonny Allen, 32, Chillicothe, was fined $10 and costs for speeding 70 miles an hour in a 60 mile zone.

Jonas Hoover, 25, Columbus, failed to yield the right of way at an exit ramp and was fined $20 and court costs.

Hearings Set In Rape Case
Hearings for three Circleville area men charged with statutory rape of a 15-year-old girl will be 10:30 a. m. July 20, in Circleville Municipal Court.

John Fyfe and Arthur Crosby, both of Neuding Trailer Court, and William Jackson, A & W Trailer Court, were charged by the parents of the girl. The men entered pleas of innocent in Municipal Court earlier this month.

Mid-East War Still On Near Canal

EL QANTARA, Occupied Egypt (AP) — The Middle East war is still going on for the tense Israeli veterans in this battle-scarred town, facing Egyptian troops only 150 yards away across the deserted Suez Canal.

"A cease-fire there may be," said a captain at the army headquarters, "but as far as we're concerned it is still war."

"Nothing more may happen for now or perhaps another 10 years, but it is going to happen. We can't go on like this."

In El Qantara, a dusty little town on the east bank of the canal, the shooting war is still a reality.

Egyptian snipers fired Wednesday at a patrol of Sinai veterans north of Ismailia. There were no casualties. But the Israelis said the Egyptians also opened up on three patrol Jeeps south of Ismailia, wounding two Israelis. A military spokesman said in five hours of firing the Egyptians used machine guns, mortars, tanks and artillery, and the Israelis knocked out a tank and several machinegun pits.

On Tuesday, sharpshooting Israeli antiaircraft gunners a few miles east of El Qantara downed one of two fighter-bombers which flew over the east bank. It took only four shots from their 75mm guns.

Makeshift blinds of sacking have been strung up at the ends of streets facing the Egyptian bank so the Egyptians cannot observe Israeli movements.

One artillery battery commander radioed for instructions last week when his positions came under fire.

"Shall I return the fire?" he asked.

"No, I shouldn't bother. They won't hit anything anyway," headquarters told him.

El Qantara was badly shot up in the fighting last month, and only about two dozen Egyptians remain.

Patrols of two vehicles each rumble out of the town and nearby unit bases every day to scour the east bank of the canal north and south and to observe Egyptian positions.

Drunk Driving Repeater Jailed
DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—A 47-year-old Dayton man with a record of drunken driving convictions was sentenced to 2-40 years in the Ohio State Penitentiary Tuesday for the traffic deaths last year of three members of an Indiana family.

Harry Burger was convicted of the traffic manslaughter charged by Common Pleas Judge Robert U. Martin.

Burger was charged with driving on the wrong side of Interstate 70 the evening of Sept. 4, 1966, and colliding with a car driven by Roy Romick of Canby, Ind. Romick, his wife and three-year-old daughter were killed.

A University of Oklahoma student who was with the Romicks was injured seriously and eventually lost an eye.

A list of drunken driving arrests against Burger dates back 14 years, authorities said.

"We can assume there will be no more forces—but at a cost of slowing the momentum of the war," one ranking officer said.

"We can restore the momentum with one division." This would fill gaps left when about 15,000 Army troops are pulled northward to back up Marines battling intensified Communist thrusts along the DMZ.

"We can step up the pace with forces beyond that."

"The unfortunate part is that we can't predict as to the duration or termination of the war under any of those three options."

This officer, whose views may be indicative of the military recommendations to President Johnson, said the United States "could profitably employ" as many as five additional divisions in South Vietnam.

This would carry the manpower level up 200,000.

There is, however, no great optimism among military men about the likelihood of getting anywhere near 200,000 in the next 12 months. Two divisions—75,000 or so men—appear to be the more likely total. The Army training structure has the capacity to train up to 90,000 men for Vietnam in the next 12 months if draft calls are increased.

But the top requirement at the moment is for 25,000 men to fill in where others have been pulled out from South Vietnam's middle II and III Corps areas.

Because of this withdrawal, the rate of scheduled U.S. attacks on enemy base camps, particularly in the so-called Iron Triangle area north of Saigon, has dropped drastically.

If additional manpower is not granted, officers say, the Communists will be able to gravitate back to jungle bases which might otherwise be denied them through regular attacks.

Detroit Man Sent to Lima

A Detroit man was ordered committed to Lima State Hospital for the Criminally Insane for a 60 day observation period by Common Pleas Judge William Ammer today.

Denver Robinson was brought into court for violating probation. He had been placed on probation for non-support by the court in April.

Ralph McWhorter of Darbyville, charged with malicious destruction of property on June 27 at Darby Tavern, appeared in court on a bill of information. Placed on probation for two years, he was ordered to make restitution to the tavern owner for damages.

Gene E. Brown, Circleville, placed on probation in August of 1966, for issuing checks with insufficient funds in the bank, was in court for violating probation.

He had been returned from Lima, where he was sent for an observation period, adjudged sane. His probation was continued by the judge.

Major Demand

Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko endorsed the Pakistani resolution and charged Israel with "insolent and provocative defiance of the United Nations." He also said the assembly must "take the most energetic measures to ensure the withdrawal of Israeli forces" from territory they occupied in Egypt, Syria and Jordan.

The assembly failed to pass such a resolution in the voting July 4 because the members were divided over a nonaligned proposal calling for an unconditional withdrawal and a Latin American resolution calling also for an end to Arab belligerency against Israel.

Sponsors of the two resolutions are trying to draft a new one that could get the two-thirds majority necessary for adoption.

Most Stocks Up Slightly

NEW YORK (AP) — Hectic trading in cigarette stocks marked a slightly rising stock market this afternoon.

The cigarette stocks, fresh from Wednesday's rally on news that Columbia University was unveiling a new and reportedly much safer filter, were buffeted by conflicting news statements.

All the cigarette stocks were higher but they faltered when the American Cancer Society said that despite reports on the new filter "the only safe rule today is not to smoke cigarettes."

Earlier, the Tobacco Institute issued a statement criticizing a report by John W. Gardner, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, which recommended stronger warnings against cigarette smoking.

The New York Stock Exchange halted trading in some cigarette stocks following the cancer society statement. The stocks had all been delayed in opening due to huge demand. Some opened on big blocks.

In the over-all stock market, gains outnumbered losses by nearly 2 to 1.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.91 at $80.61.

Newark Negroes Use Rocks, Bombs In Police Protest

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Raging Negroes besieged a police station and demonstrated at City Hall late Wednesday and early today after a Negro taxi driver was arrested.

Rocks and firebombs were hurled at the police station.

A chanting, jeering crowd estimated by police at 200 persons assembled at the 4th Precinct police station in a predominantly Negro area about a mile west of downtown then moved westward before police dispersed the group.

It was the second recent outburst in this sprawling city in the metropolitan New York area. Nineteen persons, nine of them policemen, were hurt early Saturday during a battle involving Black Muslims on the street separating Newark and East Orange.

Newark Police Director Dominick Spina said police did not battle any groups Wednesday night, but did disperse a crowd which assembled at City Hall. "It was an isolated incident," he said of the arrest, "and teenagers gathered and were incited — we don't know who incited them."

A spokesman for Newark Mayor Hugh J. Addonizio said there was no riot and incidents of looting in the area were unrelated.

Donald Malsfronte, an aide to Addonizio, said a crowd gathered at the police station after a man identified as John W. Smith was taken into custody. Malsfronte said the man's taxi cab had been stopped because it was following closely behind a police car.

Malsfronte said the crowd was composed mainly of Negro taxi drivers at first.

Spina said the crowd apparently collected because of a rumor the arrested man had been killed.

Policemen remained inside while stones, bricks and bottles pelted the station. Spina and representatives of the city's anti-poverty agency talked to the group and answered questions.

Long Fight with Government Ends; 'Little Man's' Happy

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Joe Jones, a trucker whose dreams of hauling goods across the nation ran into federal roadblocks, has finally won his long fight with the government.

"I think it's the greatest thing that ever happened to a little man," said the 43-year-old Negro Wednesday after he learned the Interstate Commerce Commission will issue a permit for him to operate his long-sought trucking company.

The permit was issued over the protests of major truck lines.

For Jones, it ended years plagued with disappointments, mounting debts and constant battles with the government as well as with large truck firms.

An ICC examiner had recommended that Jones be denied a permit because he said a large number of existing trucking lines were prepared to offer the services Jones would provide.

Jones is a disabled World War II veteran and the father of 11 children.

"I am a little man, and I think when a little man sticks in there and fights, a lot of people will come to his aid," he said.

He gained national attention last year when the Small Business Association loaned him $25,000—enough money to finance a firm, but the Interstate Commerce Commission denied him a permit to operate it.

Jones was denied a permit seven times and the case even made its way to Congress.

On March 21, the ICC finally allowed him to operate his truck line. It said it was doing so partly to enable Jones to repay his loan to the SBA.

Shortly afterward, big trucking companies again complained, and issuance of the permit was withheld. Tuesday, the ICC decided there was not sufficient or proper cause to reconsider the case.

The commission has given Jones 90 days in which to file routine papers, including his proposed rates. Then, the ICC will issue a permit.

His equipment now includes 8 tractors, 20 trailers, and 20 drivers, "but I can't haul anything that really makes money until I have that permit," said Jones.

Soviet Head Discounts China's Role in Vietnam

Ohio Financier, Kosygin Confer

DEEP COVE, Nova Scotia (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin says the war in Vietnam is "susceptible to settlement, without the participation or endorsement of China," Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland industrialist said today in an interview.

"He was very positive about this," Eaton said.

At the same time, the financier continued, Kosygin links the Vietnamese war with the conflict between the Arabs and Israelis. The Soviet leader has demanded an "immediate withdrawal" of Israeli troops from Arab territory overrun in the fighting.

Eaton said he had a conversation lasting 4½ hours with Kosygin in Canada on June 30. The Soviet leader had conferred with President Johnson in Glassboro, N.J., and with Fidel Castro in Havana. He stopped in Canada en route to Paris where he met with President Charles de Gaulle. Eaton said Kosygin sent word to him through the Soviet Embassy in Washington, asking a meeting in Gander, Newfoundland.

The industrialist said Anatoly Doyntzitsky of the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa served as the interpreter.

For more than 10 years, Eaton has been on cordial terms with the Soviet leaders. He received the Lenin Peace Prize in 1960. He frequently talked with Nikita S. Khrushchev and Anastas I. Mikoyan. Eaton said he has known Kosygin for about 10 years.

With respect to the Glassboro conferences, Eaton said, "He was pleased with reception in the United States and agreeably impressed with President Johnson."

"He felt that their meetings were constructive and helpful in terms of over-all objectives. Each presented his general view of the outstanding foreign problems."

"He is a consensus man, of course, and wants to report more fully to his associates. But I think he would welcome more talks with the President."

Eaton expressed the view that Moscow "will stand by North Vietnam with all resources, financial and military," adding, "They have their commitments to Vietnam and the Arabs and they can't be disregarded."

The industrialist said Kosygin told him he "felt they were on the verge of a settlement of the Vietnamese question" when the Soviet premier was in London last February, talking with Prime Minister Harold Wilson.

"There was a formula," Eaton said, "but he did not go into details with me."

Eaton said Kosygin believes "the problems between China and Russia eventually will be worked out. He feels the solutions would come more rapidly if there were an over-all effort to reduce the tensions in the world and cut back the arms race."

Asked if he gathered that the Soviet leaders may be more frightened of Red China now that the Chinese have exploded nuclear devices, Eaton replied, sharply, "They're not afraid of anybody."

Eaton said Kosygin's position is "identical" with De Gaulle's in tying together the conflicts in Vietnam and the Middle East—a view rejected by Washington.

The industrialist declined to say what Kosygin told him about his talks with Castro.

Eaton was interviewed in his summer residence, Deep Cove, about 65 miles from Halifax.

Sponsors of the two resolutions are trying to draft a new one that could get the two-thirds majority necessary for adoption.

Earlier, the Tobacco Institute issued a statement criticizing a report by John W. Gardner, secretary of Health, education and Welfare, which recommended stronger warnings against cigarette smoking.

The New York Stock Exchange halted trading in some cigarette stocks following the cancer society statement. The stocks had all been delayed in opening due to huge demand. Some opened on big blocks.

In the over-all stock market, gains outnumbered losses by nearly 2 to 1.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.91 at $80.61.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .7 at $30.6 with industrials up .7, rails up .6 and utilities up .2.

DETROIT MAN Sent to Lima

A Detroit man was ordered committed to Lima State Hospital for the Criminally Insane for a 60 day observation period by Common Pleas Judge William Ammer today.

Denver Robinson was brought into court for violating probation. He had been placed on probation for non-support by the court in April.

Ralph McWhorter of Darbyville, charged with malicious destruction of property on June 27 at Darby Tavern, appeared in court on a bill of information. Placed on probation for two years, he was ordered to make restitution to the tavern owner for damages.

Gene E. Brown, Circleville, placed on probation in August of 1966, for issuing checks with insufficient funds in the bank, was in court for violating probation.

He had been returned from Lima, where he was sent for an observation period, adjudged sane. His probation was continued by the judge.

Auto Fire Doused

Circleville firefighters were called to S and J Auto Parts, Route 56, 5:20 p. m. Wednesday.

Upon arriving, the firemen discovered that an auto had caught fire while workers had been cutting it with a torch.

Hearings Set In Rape Case

Hearings for three Circleville area men charged with statutory rape of a 15-year-old girl will be 10:30 a. m. July 20, in Circleville Municipal Court.

John Fyffe and Arthur Crosby, both of Neuding Trailer Court, and William Jackson, A & W Trailer Court, were charged by the parents of the girl.

The men entered pleas of innocent in Municipal Court earlier this month.

Reunion Cancelled

The Hastings family reunion, scheduled for Sunday at Gold Cliff Park, has been cancelled due to the death of Mrs. Maude Hastings Tucker.

Drunk Driving Repeater Jailed

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — A 47-year-old Dayton man with a record of drunken driving convictions was sentenced to 2-40 years in the Ohio State Penitentiary Tuesday for the traffic deaths last year of three members of an Indiana family.

Harry Burger was convicted of the traffic manslaughter charged by Common Pleas Judge Robert U. Martin.

Burger was charged with driving on the wrong side of Interstate 70 the Evening of Sept. 4, 1966, and colliding with a car driven by Roy Romick of Canby, Ind. Romick, his wife and three-year-old daughter were killed.

A University of Oklahoma student who was with the Romicks was injured seriously and eventually lost an eye.

A list of drunken driving arrests against Burger dates back 14 years, authorities said.

Injured in Fall

A 13-year-old bailing hay at an area farm who fell from the hay wagon was among persons receiving emergency care Wednesday at Berger Hospital.

Michael Coates, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Coates, 464 N. Court St., fell from a hay wagon and a wheel ran over his left arm causing contusions.

Jodi Burnett, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Burnett, Route 3, fell from her bicycle and lacerated the left side of her face.

Douglas Hartman, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Hartman, Route 2, Ashville, received contusions on his right foot when he dropped a rock.

Maxine Francis, 22, Route 1, Laurelville, was stung by a bumble bee on the index finger of her left hand.

Draws Fine

A Williamsport area woman was cited into Circleville Municipal Court and a second charge of operating a motor vehicle without an operator's license for the second time in less than three years.

On July 12, 1964, Virginia Jester, Route 2, Williamsport, was cited for having no license was handed a fine and three years probation. Thursday she was again cited, just one day before her probation period was up.

Judge Sterling Lamb fined her $150 and costs, placed her in the county jail for 30 days with 27 days suspended and put her on probation for three years.

A total of 22 out-of-county motorists cited for traffic violations paid $433 in bonds fines and costs to Municipal Court. They included:

Sonny Allen, 32, Chillicothe, was fined $10 and costs for speeding 70 miles an hour in a 60 mile zone.

James Hoover, 25, Columbus, failed to yield the right of way at an exit ramp and was fined $20 and court costs.

No Firewater for Resort Rioters under New Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Youthful rioters at Ohio summer resorts would be deprived of their beer and liquor under a bill soon to be signed into law by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

The House-passed measure sailed through the Ohio Senate Wednesday but must now go back to the House for consideration of Senate amendments. Sponsors said however, they expect it to reach the governor in a few days.

Under the measure, the governor would have authority to suspend the licenses of permit-holders for 24-72 hours and could extend suspensions longer if conditions called for it.

The emergency measure will become effective on signing by the governor and will be in effect to head off possible trouble during the Labor Day holiday at such previously hit areas as Indian Lake and Geneva-on-the-Lake, sponsors said.

Urging passage, Sen. Robin T. Turner R-14 Marion said such a bill might have headed off riots in previous years at the Indian Lake resort near Bellefontaine "because the bar owners refused to close until the town was torn apart."

In other developments on a fast moving legislative day, the House passed and sent to the Senate a comprehensive bill creating a state board to control air pollution and giving it broad powers to set regulations and enforce them.

House Speaker Charles F. Kurfess held a news conference and confirmed that legislative, administration, and church officials have discussed a possible program of state aid to parochial schools. But he emphasized that "nothing specific has been discussed."

Big industry, business, and banking officials testified against various provisions in the administration's $252 million tax hike bill. They told a Senate subcommittee that language in the bill would close certain sales tax loopholes and produce $200 million from manufacturers over and above revenue anticipated from the bill originally.

House leaders described Aug. 15 as "the earliest possible date" the assembly can end working sessions but said that when it does, it will recess until sometime next year instead of taking final adjournment. Business unfinished by the middle of next month and not urgently needed would be left until next year, they explained.

Kurfess virtually ruled out the possibility of a bond issue on the November election ballot. He said it would be "too soon" after defeat of the Ohio Bond Commission proposal and could jeopardize an apportionment plan the legislature plans to put before voters.

Other actions by the House: Bills passed and sent to the Senate would permit counties to purchase group life insurance for their officials and their families, permit township trustees to also serve as volunteer firemen, create seven-member boards of mental retardation in all counties, and increase registration and renewal fees for engineers and surveyors.

Other actions by the Senate: Unanimous votes completed passage of three house bills. They would prohibit influencing of juveniles under jurisdiction of the Ohio Youth Commission, permit county clerks to receive funds to be held in trust, and establish eligibility for Vietnam veterans to enter the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Home.

Plane Crash Victims Said Recovering

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—Two California women remained in satisfactory condition at a hospital today after the plane crash that cut short their participation in the coast-to-coast Powder Puff Derby.

The Aero Commander 100 carrying Mrs. Doris Bailey, 46, Anaheim, and Mrs. Helen Hedges, 50, Santa Ana, crashed on a farm field a mile south of here Wednesday morning.

The State Highway Patrol said the plane was out of fuel and was looking for a place to make an emergency landing. It struck some trees and crashed near U. S. 42.

Mrs. Bailey, the pilot, suffered internal injuries, including a broken pelvis. Mrs. Hedges broke her right arm.

Digest Story Hits Congress Wrong Way

WASHINGTON (AP)—An article in Reader's Digest entitled "Mike Kirwan's Big Ditch"—a story about the proposed Ohio River-Lake Erie canal, was taken to task in Congress Wednesday.

Rep. B. F. Sisk, D-Calif., who led the attack, said the June article pictured members of Congress as "blind, begging, gutless robbers of the taxpayer" who played pork barrel politics to enrich their own districts.

The article referred to the project as a vast boondoggle the House approved due to the influence of Rep. Michael Kirwan, D-Ohio, chairman of the Public Works appropriations subcommittee, and a dispenser of Democratic campaign funds. Kirwan is a primer backer of the canal.

Sisk criticized the magazine's publisher, Dewitt Wallace, calling Reader's Digest his "personal propaganda sheet." Sisk also said the attack is untimely since lobbyists and magazine publishers have been pressing congressmen to help keep postal rates from rising.

Eleven members of the House joined Sisk in praising Kirwan and condemning the article.

15 Vietnamese Civilians Killed In Firing Mishap

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command disclosed today that a mistaken artillery firing and an air strike killed 15 Vietnamese civilians and wounded 15 more.

The command said a U.S. Army artillery battery wounded three villagers when an artillery shell exploded prematurely Wednesday over a Montagnard village in the central highlands near Duc Co, close to the Cambodian border.

The other incident occurred last Saturday about 10 miles northwest of the northern coastal city of Tam Ky, in Quang Tin Province. U.S. Command said an air strike was called in support of U.S. Marines engaged in a firefight with an enemy force of unknown size.

The U.S. sector adviser later reported that 15 civilians were killed, 12 were wounded and eight homes were destroyed as a result of the strike.

Glenn Retraces Steps Taken By Famed Africa Explorer

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (AP) — Col. John Glenn has completed the first of a series of television specials in which he stars for David Wolper Productions of Hollywood.

The onetime astronaut, a native of Ohio, has spent five weeks trekking in the steps of Henry Morton Stanley through 800 miles of jungles to Lake Tanganyika. There, nearly 100 years ago, Stanley greeted the "lost" missionary, Dr. David Livingstone.

The Stanley special will launch Glenn into a new career. Wolper plans a series on explorers like Marco Polo, Amundsen, Cortez, and Hannibal, at the rate of two a year.

"It won't make me rich," Glenn said.

"We are getting right away from the old travelogue idea with this series. We are interested in the great explorations which have had a lasting impact on the areas discovered, just as Stanley's journeys open up Africa for European colonial exploitation — the period from which Africa is just emerging.

"We covered his tracks and I narrate from diaries at appropriate places on the route, also giving spontaneous comments on my own impressions. This way we hope to show the impact of exploration in depth, as most journeys triggered off much more than the explorers ever expected, and more than they ever lived to see themselves."

Glenn's team, protected by three hunters and directed by John Peer Nugent, covered the ground on foot and by four-wheel drive trucks, with short bursts by air and rail.

Glenn expects to return to the United States next week.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower left Walter Reed Army Medical Center in Washington this morning and wasted no time in returning to his desk to catch up on paperwork.

The five-star general underwent some minor dental work and a routine physical checkup at the hospital. He entered Monday.

Eisenhower flew from Washington to his Gettysburg farm by helicopter at midmorning. Fifteen minutes later, he was back in his office.

The former president expects to resume his normal appointment schedule Thursday.

The hospital said results of the physical examination "indicated the general's physical condition is good."

House leaders described Aug. 15 as "the earliest possible date" the assembly can end working sessions but said that when it does, it will recess until sometime next year instead of taking final adjournment. Business unfinished by the middle of next month and not urgently needed would be left until next year, they explained.

Kurfess virtually ruled out the possibility of a bond issue on the November election ballot. He said it would be "too soon" after defeat of the Ohio Bond Commission proposal and could jeopardize an apportionment plan the legislature plans to put before voters.

Other actions by the House: Bills passed and sent to the Senate would permit counties to purchase group life insurance for their officials and their families, permit township trustees to also serve as volunteer firemen, create seven-member boards of mental retardation in all counties, and increase registration and renewal fees for engineers and surveyors.

Other actions by the Senate: Unanimous votes completed passage of three house bills. They would prohibit influencing of juveniles under jurisdiction of the Ohio Youth Commission, permit county clerks to receive funds to be held in trust, and establish eligibility for Vietnam veterans to enter the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Home.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — An Ohio serviceman, Larry Singer, is spending the second anniversary of his entry into the Air Force by ogling 66 beauties in the Miss Universe pageant.

Singer, on leave before going to Vietnam, hitchhiked by airplane to Miami Beach.

"As long as things are happening I thought Miami was as good a place as any to go," Singer said with a smile as some longlegged beauties passed.

"It is truly regretful that they can't date, but at least I get to see what other guys dream about," the 21-year-old airman said.

"I don't believe it. I just don't believe it. The guys back home are never going to believe it either."

Singer, a native of Youngstown, Ohio, will celebrate his Air Force anniversary today by watching the preliminary judging in the Miami Beach Auditorium, where the 15 best in swimsuits will be selected.

Singer said he can't afford to remain for the finals Saturday night but plans to watch it on television in Youngstown.

Agreement Reached In Masons' Strike

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — The cement masons of Stark, Summit, Medina and Portage counties return to work today after reaching agreement on a contract with the construction councils of their respective counties.

The agreement was reached after 10 hours of bargaining Tuesday. The contracts now have to be ratified by union membership.

This agreement leaves the operating engineers and the carpenters unions still on strike. Strikes by the construction unions started 10 weeks ago.

GLENN'S team, protected by three hunters and directed by John Peer Nugent, covered the ground on foot and by four-wheel drive trucks, with short bursts by air and rail.

Glenn expects to return to the United States next week.

Plane Crash Victims Said Recovering

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—Two California women remained in satisfactory condition at a hospital today after the plane crash that cut short their participation in the coast-to-coast Powder Puff Derby.

The Aero Commander 100 carrying Mrs. Doris Bailey, 46, Anaheim, and Mrs. Helen Hedges, 50, Santa Ana, crashed on a farm field a mile south of here Wednesday morning.

The State Highway Patrol said the plane was out of fuel and was looking for a place to make an emergency landing. It struck some trees and crashed near U. S. 42.

Mrs. Bailey, the pilot, suffered internal injuries, including a broken pelvis. Mrs. Hedges broke her right arm.

Digest Story Hits Congress Wrong Way

WASHINGTON (AP)—An article in Reader's Digest entitled "Mike Kirwan's Big Ditch"—a story about the proposed Ohio River-Lake Erie canal, was taken to task in Congress Wednesday.

Rep. B. F. Sisk, D-Calif., who led the attack, said the June article pictured members of Congress as "blind, begging, gutless robbers of the taxpayer" who played pork barrel politics to enrich their own districts.

The article referred to the project as a vast boondoggle the House approved due to the influence of Rep. Michael Kirwan, D-Ohio, chairman of the Public Works appropriations subcommittee, and a dispenser of Democratic campaign funds. Kirwan is a primer backer of the canal.

Sisk criticized the magazine's publisher, Dewitt Wallace, calling Reader's Digest his "personal propaganda sheet." Sisk also said the attack is untimely since lobbyists and magazine publishers have been pressing congressmen to help keep postal rates from rising.

Eleven members of the House joined Sisk in praising Kirwan and condemning the article.

15 Vietnamese Civilians Killed In Firing Mishap

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command disclosed today that a mistaken artillery firing and an air strike killed 15 Vietnamese civilians and wounded 15 more.

The command said a U.S. Army artillery battery wounded three villagers when an artillery shell exploded prematurely Wednesday over a Montagnard village in the central highlands near Duc Co, close to the Cambodian border.

The other incident occurred last Saturday about 10 miles northwest of the northern coastal city of Tam Ky, in Quang Tin Province. U.S. Command said an air strike was called in support of U.S. Marines engaged in a firefight with an enemy force of unknown size.

The U.S. sector adviser later reported that 15 civilians were killed, 12 were wounded and eight homes were destroyed as a result of the strike.

'Temporary' Taxes

Rep. Charles A. Vanik, Ohio Democrat — a member of the House Ways and Means Committee — has looked ahead to next April 1 by introducing a bill to cancel reductions on some excise taxes scheduled for that date. He says it would be ridiculous to cut taxes at that time.

Doubtless Mr. Vanik has something there. With budget deficit estimates running from $8 billion to $29 billion, the administration can be expected to fight an annual "loss" to the Treasury of $2.5 billion, the amount of the excise tax cuts.

Add Lost Causes

America once boasted of men who braved the wilderness to carve out a civilization. There were many tragedies and failures, but ultimately the frontier was subdued.

Now a Lincoln Park, N. J. man, Irving Fitzg, hopes to succeed where others have failed. Undeterred by countless crusades against the practice of tipping that have ended in ignoble defeat, Fitzg and his group, known as NOTIP, sound the trumpet again.

Under the law, the tax on new automobiles, for example, is to drop from 7 per cent to 2 per cent in April and to 1 per cent Jan. 1, 1969. The telephone tax is scheduled to be reduced from 10 to 1 per cent in April and repealed the following Jan. 1.

These and similar levies were enacted to help finance World War II and the Korean war and were supposed to be "temporary." If Congress supports Mr. Vanik's proposal to cancel the reductions, it will prove again there's nothing so permanent as a temporary tax.

Opposing tipping as degrading and patronizing, NOTIP's policy is to leave no cash, only a card saying, "Thanks, but no tip."

NOTIP faces of course, hostile interests which include not only waiters, doormen, bellhops and cabbies but their respective employers, who prefer that their customers help meet their pay-rolls.

It's a formidable array, and one can only wish Fitzg and his crusaders luck. They'll need it — also a fast getaway.

Governors Will Never Agree

By John Chamberlain

A long time ago, as political history is reckoned, the Republican governors managed to achieve a cohesiveness which helped in nominating Ike Eisenhower when a majority of the national party actually favored Senator Bob Taft. Ever since then the illusion has persisted that the governors hold the key to the Republican convention choice if only they have the will to act.

What is generally forgotten, however, is that 1952, the year of Ike's ascendancy and Taft's defeat, was a rather special year. The governors were willing to line up behind Eisenhower in 1952 largely because none of them had any particular aspirations of his own. Governor Tom Dewey of New York had, as Senator Ev Dirksen rather rudely pointed out, twice led the party down the road to defeat, and there was nobody in the governors circle with the combined confidence and competence to pick up where Dewey had left off.

Things have indeed changed since the Eisenhower-Nixon years. And because they have changed, the "governors' club" has become a mechanism for disruption rather than a force for unity. In 1964, Senator Barry Goldwater, even though he was a most reluctant candidate, got the jump on the field because of an excess of prima donna-ism at the State capitals. Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York wanted the nomination so badly that he refused to recognize his own vulnerability in time to line up behind anyone else. Romney of Michigan, Scranton of Pennsylvania and Hatfield of Oregon were all bemused by Rockefeller's persistence in chasing Goldwater. When the results of the California primary made it all too plain that Rockefeller was through, it was too late for the governors to combine behind a "moderate" who had any chance of stopping the Goldwater machine which Clifton White had so artfully put together. Romney and Scranton made their belated efforts, but, as Hatfield had the realism to tell them, it was all too apparent that Goldwater had the convention sewed up.

With 1964 in mind, Bill Scranton of Pennsylvania, though soon to be an ex-governor, started an early propaganda for governor solidarity behind George Romney. And for a time it looked as though the history of 1952 might be repeated. But the hoped-for "united front" bejelled, and the reports from the Republican Governors' Conference at Jackson Hole, Wyoming, don't give it much chance for early acceptance. The reason for dissidence among their governors should be obvious: too many of them have ambitions of their own to nurture.

Romney can't get a clear endorsement for the simple reason that many of the Republican governors lack strong ideological motivation. They see that if Richard Nixon, the frontrunner conservative choice, falters, and if Romney fails to do well in the primaries, the nomination could be up for grabs. Moreover, the Vice Presidency slot on the ticket would be open to the shrewdest trader. So why, at this point, get together on a possible substitute for Romney? Better to play it by ear, and wait to see what the primaries disclose.

Governor Tom McCall of Oregon, a Rockefeller partisan, is not at all sure that Romney can make it. He thinks Rockefeller could get it this time. But, coming from the State that made Rockefeller its primary choice in 1964, he may not have accurately plumbed the depths and the intensity of the anti-Rockefeller feeling among the conservatives. Switches from Romney might not be strong enough or numerous enough to counter a swing toward Governor Reagan of California if neither Nixon nor Romney can win in an early round. As for Reagan himself, he does not go before his brother governors as an ideologue of any stripe. His manifest pragmatism permits governors in the middle — Rhodes of Ohio, Volpe of Massachusetts, Laxalt of Nevada — to "stay loose." And right-wing governors such as Babcock of Montana and Kirk of Florida would certainly be willing to trade for influence with the Reagan camp.

So look for the governors to remain in a state of dissidence until the very end. There will be no repetition of 1952 in 1968.

No matter how beautiful an airline hostess may be, points out the man at the next desk, she's still a plane girl!

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A YOUNG LADY in Las Vegas dialed what she thought was the number of a local movie theatre. A long-suffering gent who probably had had similar calls frequently in the past, must have figured there was no use fighting City Hall. When the lady asked "What's your program for this evening?" he answered wearily, "I WAS reckoning on taking a bath and going to bed. What's on your mind, honey?"

Some of the pretentious politicos of the day, given to interminable speeches and bumbling perorations on TV, might take heed of Abraham Lincoln's warning against the like: as thin as the homeopathic soup made by boiling the shadow of a pigeon that had been starved to death.

Third-grade pupil to a new kid in class: "Remember, around here, when the teacher says NO, she means it; it's not like around home."

Secretary to boss who has just presented her, unexpectedly, with a new mink coat: "You just take that coat back. I'm not that kind of a girl at all. I wear a size smaller."

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I am embarrassed by the appearance of my skin. I can't wear a bathing suit because of the big white patches over my body. My condition has been called vitiligo. Some time ago you wrote a column about this and thought that there might soon be hope for a cure. Is there any yet? Is the cause still unknown?

Mrs. K. L., Tennessee
Dear Mrs. L.: Vitiligo, as some of my readers may not know, is a condition in which there is marked loss of pigmentation of large patches of skin. The edges are sharply defined from areas of normal pigmentation.

The cause has never been definitely found. A heredity factor has been suspected. The skin depigmentation can occur in all races and has no known physical affect on general health. As in your case, the cosmetic affect is most distressing.

Occasionally, there is a temporary loss of skin pigmentation during some illnesses. When the underlying condition is cured the skin then returns to normal. In vitiligo all kinds of creams and lotions with and without hormones and cortisone have been tried with virtually no success.

In a personal communication Dr. Jesse A. Tolmach, a prominent skin specialist in New York City, told me of a drug that has been tried with some success and some disadvantages. Oxyprolone when taken by mouth seems to help return some of the pigment when the skin is later exposed to sunlight.

Dr. Tolmach emphasizes that the drug has some definite toxic side effects and, therefore, must only be used under the absolute direction of the doctor who prescribed it. He feels that the potential danger of the drug does not warrant its unlimited use.

Many scientists at Harvard and Yale are actively seeking the cause and the control of this unpleasant condition. Until a safe one is found Dr. Tolmach suggests the use of the many cosmetic preparations that cleverly cover the skin areas without the possibility of harm to health.

One of my children was found to have pinworms in her intestines. The others are free of them. Is this because of a special immunity?

Mrs. R. T. E., Idaho

Dear Mrs. E.: Pinworms were once believed to be a disease only of people who lived in unsanitary homes in underprivileged areas. This is not so. The frequency with which it occurs in such areas is undoubtedly higher than in the United States. Yet a large number of children who live in relatively sanitary conditions become infested with pinworms.

It is rather unusual that only one child in the family should have this condition because it is so readily passed from one to another. No, there is no special immunity that protects one person from the pinworm parasite.

Poor hygiene is distinctly the most important factor in the transmission of the pinworm eggs. It is for this reason that children in close quarters in families, schools and camp harbor and pass on the worm. Children must be taught rigid hygiene rules if they are to be free of this annoying condition.

Fortunately, there are now many excellent safe chemicals and drugs which can completely destroy the parasite. The only sure way to be permanently rid of them is to follow the firm rules of cleanliness. A good breakfast is an excellent way to fortify oneself for a full day's activity.

The Business World

By John Cuniff

NEW YORK (AP) — Philosophical distinctions sometimes fail to disturb front-line fighters in the continuing war between private enterprise and what some businessmen consider to be the swollen monster of big government.

The brand-new Council for Private Enterprise, for example is headed by Edwin Hood, who also heads the Shipbuilders Council of America, which represents an industry well subsidized by big government.

The Council for Private Enterprise, whose main purpose is to "publicize the importance of private enterprise in every possible way," maintains a simple, pragmatic approach to the contest.

Its view is that the more work the government handles the less there is for private enterprise. And so it suggests that wherever possible the government get out of retailing, engineering, dredging, employment agencies, florist shops, parking lots, restaurants, shipbuilding.

In this way it is unlike its cousins in the fight against big government, the largest enterprise in America today. Many other opponents of big government take a moral or legal or political approach.

First, there are those who simply dislike big budgets and deficits. This group maintains that big budgets are mostly politically inspired and that the government is acting immorally in passing on debts to future generations.

Another group consists of those who oppose government regulation on the grounds that the fewer the restrictions on business the better it is for both buyer and seller.

The council, however, states simply that such activities are wrong because they deprive business of its legitimate rights. Private enterprise, they say, is the American way. It built the country. It is the strongest system.

Despite its great strength, however, private enterprise is hardly winning the battle with a growing government, the council feels.

"This is a problem that won't be corrected immediately, if ever," Hood said. "This little effort isn't going to solve the problem."

The little effort Hood refers to was formed by representatives of various industrial associations, many of which have lobbying as their main concern. They meet once a month, informally, in Hood's office.

The chief product of their mutual interest has been a booklet sent to congressmen and businessmen which documents its case in terms such as this:

"In 1960, in fact, the Bureau of the Budget admitted to 24,000 examples of competition with the private sector: 19,100 were maintained by civilian agencies and some 5,000 by the Department of Defense."

How did government get into these areas? Often because of the failure of business to regulate itself, because of its inability to handle profitless jobs, because of the huge scope of projects such as space.

Wars have played a role, forcing the military and defense areas to swell. And size itself demands more facilities, workers and services, none of which are cut back completely after the war.

The council feels some mixture of public and private enterprise is needed for some problems. But it feels that much of the present big-government activities developed in spite of, rather than in response to, the demands of voters.

And for a time it looked as though the history of 1952 might be repeated. But the hoped-for "united front" was jelled, and the reports from the Republican Governors' Conference at Jackson Hole, Wyoming, don't give it much chance for early acceptance. The reason for dissidence among the governors should be obvious: too many of them have ambitions of their own to nurture.

Romney can't get a clear endorsement for the simple reason that many of the Republican governors lack strong ideological motivation. They see that if Richard Nixon, the frontrunner conservative choice, falters, and if Romney fails to do well in the primaries, the nomination could be up for grabs. Moreover, the Vice Presidency on the ticket would be open to the shrewdest trader. So why, at this point, get together on a possible substitute for Romney? Better to play it by ear, and wait to see what the primaries disclose.

Governor Tom McCall of Oregon, a Rockefeller partisan, is not at all sure that Romney can make it. He thinks Rockefeller could get it this time. But, coming from the State that made Rockefeller its primary choice in 1964, he may not have accurately plumbed the depths and the intensity of the anti-Rockefeller feeling among the conservatives. Switches from Romney might not be strong enough or numerous enough to counter a swing toward Governor Reagan of California if neither Nixon nor Romney can win in an early round. As for Reagan himself, he does not go before his brother governors as an ideologue of any stripe. His manifest pragmatism permits governors in the middle — Rhodes of Ohio, Volpe of Massachusetts, Laxalt of Nevada — to "stay loose."

And right-wing governors such as Babcock of Montana and Kirk of Florida would certainly be willing to trade for influence with the Reagan camp.

So look for the governors to remain in a state of dissidence until the very end. There will be no repetition of 1952 in 1968.

The volume of long distance phone calls made on Father's Day is growing far more rapidly than the calls made annually on Mother's Day, according to the Illinois Bell Telephone Company. What we'd like to know is what percentage of Dads have to pay for the calls.

One the first day of summer, a horse named Welcome Winter won the first race at the Delaware track. This may be out of season but he sure seems in shape.

A Prestwood, England lovely has been banned from that village's annual beauty contest because she's won it so often. That's a pretty-how-de-do!

The 654 employees of a Cuban government-owned pants factory pledge to observe the 14th anniversary of Castro's July 26 revolution by turning out an extra 50,000 pairs of breeches. Certainly looks like Fidel has those guys in his pocket!

The trouble with taking a late summer vacation, says Grandpappy Jenkins, is that no one notices the fine coat of tan you acquired.

No matter how beautiful an airline hostess may be, points out the man at the next desk, she's still a plane girl!

"Please, Harry... if you didn't take it with you, where is it?"

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A YOUNG LADY in Las Vegas dialed what she thought was the number of a local movie theatre. A long-suffering gent who probably had had similar calls frequently in the past, must have figured there was no use fighting City Hall. When the lady asked "What's your program for this evening?" he answered wearily, "I WAS reckoning on taking a bath and going to bed. What's on your mind, honey?"

Some of the pretentious politicians of the day, given to interminable speeches and bumbling perorations on TV, might take heed of Abraham Lincoln's warning against the like: as thin as the homeopathic soup made by boiling the shadow of a pigeon that had been starved to death.

Third-grade pupil to a new kid in class: "Remember, around here, when the teacher says NO, she means it; it's not like around home."

Secretary to boss who has just presented her, unexpectedly, with a new mink coat: "You just take that coat back. I'm not that kind of a girl at all. I wear a size smaller."

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I am embarrassed by the appearance of my skin. I can't wear a bathing suit because of the big white patches over my body. My condition has been called vitiligo. Some time ago you wrote a column about this and thought that there might soon be hope for a cure. Is there any yet? Is the cause still unknown?

Dear Mrs. L. L., Tennessee
Mrs. K. L. Vitiligo, as some of my readers may not know, is a condition in which there is marked loss of pigmentation of large patches of skin. The edges are sharply defined from areas of normal pigmentation.

The cause has never been definitely found. A heredity factor has been suspected. The skin depigmentation can occur in all races and has no known physical affect on general health. As in your case, the cosmetic affect is most distressing.

Occasionally, there is a temporary loss of skin pigmentation during some illnesses. When the underlying condition is cured the skin then returns to normal. In vitiligo all kinds of creams and lotions with and without hormones and cortisone have been tried with virtually no success.

In a personal communication Dr. Jesse A. Tolmach, a prominent skin specialist in New York City, told me of a drug that has been tried with some success and some disadvantages. Oxyphorolene when taken by mouth seems to help return some of the pigment when the skin is later exposed to sunlight.

Dr. Tolmach emphasizes that the drug has some definite toxic side effects and, therefore, must only be used under the absolute direction of the doctor who prescribed it. He feels that the potential danger of the drug does not warrant its unlimited use.

Many scientists at Harvard and Yale are actively seeking the cause and the control of this unpleasant condition. Until a safe one is found Dr. Tolmach suggests the use of the many cosmetic preparations that cleverly cover the skin areas without the possibility of harm to health.

One of my children was found to have pinworms in her intestines. The others are free of them. Is this because of a special immunity?

Mrs. R. T. E., Idaho

Dear Mrs. E.: Pinworms were once believed to be a disease only of people who lived in unsanitary homes in underprivileged areas. This is not so. The frequency with which it occurs in such areas is undoubtedly higher than in the United States. Yet a large number of children who live in relatively sanitary conditions become infested with pinworms.

It is rather unusual that only one child in the family should have this condition because it is so readily passed from one to another. No, there is no special immunity that protects one person from the pinworm parasite.

Poor hygiene is distinctly the most important factor in the transmission of the pinworm eggs. It is for this reason that children in close quarters in families, schools and camp harbor and pass on the worm. Children must be taught rigid hygiene rules if they are to be free of this annoying condition. Fortunately, there are now many excellent safe chemicals and drugs which can completely destroy the parasite. The only sure way to be permanently rid of them is to follow the firm rules of cleanliness.

A good breakfast is an excellent way to fortify oneself for a full day's activity.

The Business World

By John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — Philosophical distinctions sometimes fail to disturb front-line fighters in the continuing war between private enterprise and what some businessmen consider to be the swollen monster of big government.

The brand-new Council for Private Enterprise, for example is headed by Edwin Hood, who also heads the Shipbuilders Council of America, which represents an industry well subsidized by big government.

The Council for Private Enterprise, whose main purpose is to "publicize the importance of private enterprise in every possible way," maintains a simple, pragmatic approach to the contest.

Its view is that the more work the government handles the less there is for private enterprise. And so it suggests that wherever possible the government get out of retailing, engineering, dredging, employment agencies, florist shops, parking lots, restaurants, shipbuilding.

In this way it is unlike its cousins in the fight against big government, the largest enterprise in America today. Many other opponents of big government take a moral or legal or political approach.

First, there are those who simply dislike big budgets and deficits. This group maintains that big budgets are mostly politically inspired and that the government is acting immorally in passing on debts to future generations.

Another group consists of those who oppose government regulation on the grounds that the fewer the restrictions on business the better it is for both buyer and seller.

The council, however, states simply that such activities are wrong because they deprive business of its legitimate rights. Private enterprise, they say, is the American way. It built the country. It is the strongest system.

Despite its great strength, however, private enterprise is hardly winning the battle with a growing government, the council feels.

"This is a problem that won't be corrected immediately, if ever," Hood said. "This little effort isn't going to solve the problem."

The little effort Hood refers to was formed by representatives of various industrial associations, many of which have lobbying as their main concern. They meet once a month, informally, in Hood's office.

The chief product of their mutual interest has been a booklet sent to congressmen and businessmen which documents its case in terms such as this:

"In 1960, in fact, the Bureau of the Budget admitted to 24,000 examples of competition with the private sector: 19,100 were maintained by civilian agencies and some 5,900 by the Department of Defense."

How did government get into these areas? Often because of the failure of business to regulate itself, because of its inability to handle profitless jobs, because of the huge scope of projects such as space.

Wars have played a role, forcing the military and defense areas to swell. And size itself demands more facilities, workers and services, none of which are cut back completely after the war.

The council feels some mixture of public and private enterprise is needed for some problems. But it feels that much of the present big-government activities developed in spite of, rather than in response to, the demands of voters.

Jerry Patrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dane Patrick, left at noon Friday for Brazil, to visit the friends he made there, when he was with the Peace Corps for two years.

Jerry liked Brazil very much and wanted to return before he is called into the service. He will probably be there for three weeks.

The annual Salem Fish Fry at Salem Church will be held July 20. Everyone is welcome to come and enjoy the good food.

The WSCS of Kingston Methodist Church will meet at 2 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Effie Hildenbrand on Wednesday July 12.

The Senior M.Y.F. with their counselor, Mrs. Dwight Davis, are in camp this week at Lancaster Campground. The young people attending are Sherri Edler, Christy Edler, Peggy Phillips, Jeanne Beavers, Debbie Spriggs, Peggy French, Ann Timmons, Jody Kerns, Sue Ann Knisley, Mike Barnes, Max Schooley, Jim and Kristi Davis.

The Couples Club of the Methodist Church is planning an ice cream and cake party for all the members of the Kingston church, Saturday July 22. If any one would like to help them please call Mrs. William Meadows or Mrs. L. E. Hill. The party will be held on the church lawn at 7 p. m.

Dr. and Mrs. Clyde Reed of Harbor Hills came Thursday and spent the weekend at their home here.

Mrs. James Benzing and four sons of Hamilton spent from Wednesday through Friday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Freshour.

Mr. Tom Roos is being transferred from Mt. Vernon to Houston, Texas. Mr. and Mrs. Roos and three sons came Friday to visit for a week at the home of her father, Mrs. Forrest Kreisel. The twin boys were just a year old last Friday.

Neal Thomas, ATN3, who has been stationed at Norfolk, Va., is being transferred to Patuxent River, Maryland. He spent from Friday to Wednesday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Thomas and his brother, Steve, before going to his new assignment.

John Boggs who is in R.O.T.C. training at Fort Devan, Mass., spent a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Boggs and brother, Ned.

Mr. A. D. Ellis returned home Friday after spending more than a week in San Diego with his son, Col. John H. Ellis and Mrs. Ellis. He was there to attend the ceremonies in connection with the retirement of his son and the turning over of his command in the Marines.

Russian Troupe Tour Cancelled

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet officials called off a tour of the United States by 250 Russian dancers, singers and musicians because of tension over the Middle East and Vietnam, a source in the Ministry of Culture said today.

"If the international situation changes in a favorable way, then the group might go," the source said.

The Russian Festival of Music and Dance troupe had original been scheduled to open its tour July 5 in New York under the auspices of impresario Sol Horok. Following the Arab-Israeli war, which caused an angry new Soviet-American dispute, the Russians postponed the tour.

In order to make arrangements for theaters and other facilities, Hurok set a new starting date of July 17 without any Soviet assurance that it would be met, the Cultural Ministry source said. Tuesday, Hurok's New York office said the Soviet Embassy in Washington had informed it the tour was "postponed indefinitely."

China May Force U.S. Hand On Expensive ABM Program

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Red China's development toward nuclear rockets may force the Johnson administration toward a decision to spend billions of dollars for an antiballistic missile system which it doesn't want now.

Although most of the nation's top military men favor an ABM defense, President Johnson and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara are reluctant to give a go-ahead for the present Nike-X system for these reasons:

1. The extremely high cost, an estimated total of $22 billion to protect just 50 U.S. cities, leaving unprotected 130 cities each with 100,000 or more population.

2. Rapid technological advances that continually improve a missile's ability to hit a target. Such advances could make a system like Nike-X obsolete before it could be completely deployed, a matter of five or six years.

3. Before committing a huge sum to producing Nike-X, the United States might have to conduct atmospheric nuclear tests to make sure the system worked. This would violate the limited nuclear test-ban treaty.

McNamara commented: "Studies we have made cast doubt on the ability of any system to protect our population against Soviet attack."

President Johnson has asked $375 million in the fiscal 1968 budget for contingency production of the Nike-X system. But he has indicated he would withhold an order to produce a missile killer pending the outcome of diplomatic contacts seeking agreement with the Soviet Union not to deploy ABMs.

The Russians have started constructing at least a limited ABM system, and Johnson is saying that if both nations hold off, each will save considerable money. But, two weeks ago at his United Nations news conference, Soviet Premier Alexi N. Kosygin was asked about prospects for an agreement on limiting development of antiballistic missile systems.

He indicated there was little chance, saying: "We believe the discussions should center not on merely the problems of an antimissile defense system because after all the antimissile system is not a weapon of aggression, of attack, it is a weapon of protection—it's a defensive system. And we feel, therefore, that what should be considered is the entire complex of armament-disarmament questions."

Earlier last month the chief of Soviet civil defense boasted that his country could destroy all enemy missiles before they reached Soviet territory. In February this same official, Marshal Vasily I. Chuikov, had said the Soviet Union was not completely safe from missile attack.

Red China's emergence as a nuclear power is causing the United States to re-evaluate its position.

In a report issued June 15, the Senate-House Economics Committee concluded that Red China has a "very large capacity for nuclear weapon development" but added: "It will take time before China can hope, if ever, to approach a position of parity with the United States or the Soviet Union, either in numbers or sophistication of nuclear weapons."

Two days later, Red China

exploded its first hydrogen bomb. Furthermore, scientists on the staff of Japan's Institute of Atmospheric Sciences concluded that the explosion had occurred 18 to 31 miles high, indicating that the bomb was sent aloft by a missile.

Some American experts, while opposing an all-out ABM system, believe this country should provide some protection against a possible surprise attack from a substantial force of nuclear-tipped missiles from Red China.

Others favor holding off until improvements in technology make possible more sophisticated systems, such as exploding huge nuclear bombs in the path of incoming warheads, or orbiting a series of satellites that could destroy a rocket as it lifted off.

Much research and testing is being done in these areas, as well as on projects designed to intercept, inspect and destroy hostile satellites.

Nike-X consists of two separate rocket systems. The Spartan, with a range of 400 miles, would intercept a warhead outside the atmosphere. Warheads that eluded the Spartan would be attacked below 100,000-ft. by the Sprint.

Both these ABMs destroy the targets within a nuclear explosion and merely have to detonate their charges within a mile of the warhead.

But the Soviet Union, like the United States, has complex decoys to fool tracking radar and is producing missiles with maneuverable, multiple warheads.

Exploding very large nuclear bombs in the paths of such concentrated attacks thus would be better than the "one-on-one" concept of Nike-X. Such bombs would have the force of 100 or more megatons, more than 10 times the power of the Nike-X bursts.

Detonation of a few of these large rocket-carried bombs at the proper altitude and latitude could trap dense quantities of radiation particles in the earth's magnetic field.

The explosion would disable any missile within several miles, and within 30 minutes an artificial belt of radiation would encircle the globe. This umbrella would be strong enough to damage the electronic elements of nuclear warheads, rendering ineffective entire barrages of enemy missiles. It would not require the complex tracking radar of Nike-X, and it would not be hampered by decoys or maneuverable warheads.

The Defense Department also is re-examining a concept called Project Bambi which was abandoned in 1964 as too costly. It envisions hundreds of satellites spaced out in low earth orbit so that several would be over enemy territories at all times.

Satellite sensors would detect a rising rocket, and the vehicle would immediately unleash clouds of metal projectiles to pierce and destroy the rocket before it got out of the atmosphere.

Systems under study by the United States include maneuverable nuclear attack ships that would fly directly at a target and satellites that would fly alongside an enemy payload. By electronic means, the latter could learn the contents of the suspected satellite and, if necessary, destroy it.

Strike Talks Under Pressure

Rail Union Leaders
Prod Congressmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — House and Senate conferees still trying to agree on legislation to prevent a nationwide rail strike indicate they're displeased about increased pressure from the six rail unions involved.

The unions told congressmen Tuesday they will withdraw their interim pledge against a nationwide strike unless Congress agrees soon on the legislation.

The conferees planned a series of meetings today after reaching no agreement Tuesday.

Chairman Harley O. Staggers, D-W. Va., of the House Commerce Committee said he has "high hopes we can reach some agreement."

But he said he questioned the timing of the unions' statement "a little bit." Several conferees said privately that the letter from Joseph W. Ramsey of the six-union negotiating committee complicated matters.

The unions pledged not to strike pending congressional action after the Senate and House approved differing anti-strike plans in mid-June.

Ramsey said the unions are setting no strike date but would withdraw their pledge if the conferees make no progress by Saturday.

About 137,000 rail workers are involved. They seek a 6.5 per cent pay raise this year and 5 per cent next year, plus an extra 12.5 cents per hour in each year for skilled workers.

The railroads reportedly last offered a 6 per cent general pay increase for 18 months and a 5-cent extra increase for skilled workers. Skilled workers now average $3.05, the others $2.94.

USDA Releases Crop Predictions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Agriculture announced Tuesday the crop predictions this year for Ohio.

Corn for grain: 5,333,000 acres for harvest, 81 bushels per acre yield, 269,973,000 bushels production.

Winter wheat: 1,491,000 acres for harvest, 38 bushels per acre yield, 56,558,000 bushels production.

Oats: 520,000 acres for harvest, 55 bushels per acre yield, 28,600,000 bushels production.

Sugar beets: 25,000 acres for harvest, 16 tons per acre yield, 400,000 tons production.

Tobacco: 9,900 acres for harvest, 2,124 pounds per acre yield, 21,025,000 pounds production.

The forecast also indicated Ohio would produce 2,400,000 bushels of apples with 2,231,000 acres of soybeans for harvest.

China May Force U.S. Hand On Expensive ABM Program

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Red China's development toward nuclear rockets may force the Johnson administration toward a decision to spend billions of dollars for an antiballistic missile system which it doesn't want now.

Although most of the nation's top military men favor an ABM defense, President Johnson and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara are reluctant to give a go-ahead for the present Nike-X system for these reasons:

1. The extremely high cost, an estimated total of $22 billion to protect just 50 U.S. cities, leaving unprotected 130 cities each with 100,000 or more population.

2. Rapid technological advances that continually improve a missile's ability to hit a target. Such advances could make a system like Nike-X obsolete before it could be completely deployed, a matter of five or six years.

3. Before committing a huge sum to producing Nike-X, the United States might have to conduct atmospheric nuclear tests to make sure the system worked. This would violate the limited nuclear test-ban treaty.

McNamara commented: "Studies we have made cast doubt on the ability of any system to protect our population against Soviet attack."

President Johnson has asked $375 million in the fiscal 1968 budget for contingency production of the Nike-X system. But he has indicated he would withhold an order to produce a missile killer pending the outcome of diplomatic contacts seeking agreement with the Soviet Union not to deploy ABMs.

The Russians have started constructing at least a limited ABM system, and Johnson is saying that if both nations hold off, each will save considerable money. But, two weeks ago at his United Nations news conference, Soviet Premier Alexi N. Kosygin was asked about prospects for an agreement on limiting development of antiballistic missile systems.

He indicated there was little chance, saying: "We believe the discussions should center not on merely the problems of an antimissile defense system because after all the antimissile system is not a weapon of aggression, of attack, it is a weapon of protection— it's a defensive system. And we feel, therefore, that what should be considered is the entire complex of armament-disarmament questions."

Earlier last month the chief of Soviet civil defense boasted that his country could destroy all enemy missiles before they reached Soviet territory. In February this same official, Marshal Vasily I. Chuikov, had said the Soviet Union was not completely safe from missile attack.

Red China's emergence as a nuclear power is causing the United States to re-evaluate its position.

In a report issued June 15, the Senate-House Economics Committee concluded that Red China has a "very large capacity for nuclear weapon development" but added: "It will take time before China can hope, if ever, to approach a position of parity with the United States or the Soviet Union, either in numbers or sophistication of nuclear weapons."

Two days later, Red China

exploded its first hydrogen bomb. Furthermore, scientists on the staff of Japan's Institute of Atmospheric concluded that the explosion had occurred 18 to 31 miles high, indicating that the bomb was sent aloft by a missile.

Some American experts, while opposing an all-out ABM system, believe this country should provide some protection against a possible surprise attack from a substantial force of nuclear-tipped missiles from Red China.

Others favor holding off until improvements in technology make possible more sophisticated systems, such as exploding huge nuclear bombs in the path of incoming warheads, or orbiting a series of satellites that could destroy a rocket as it lifted off.

Much research and testing is being done in these areas, as well as on projects designed to intercept, inspect and destroy hostile satellites.

Nike-X consists of two separate rocket systems. The Spartan, with a range of 400 miles, would intercept a warhead outside the atmosphere. Warheads that eluded the Spartan would be attacked below 100,000-ft. by the Sprint.

Both these ABMs destroy the targets within a nuclear explosion and merely have to detonate their charges within a mile of the warhead.

But the Soviet Union, like the United States, has complex decoys to fool tracking radar and is producing missiles with maneuverable, multiple warheads.

Exploding very large nuclear bombs in the paths of such concentrated attacks thus would be better than the "one-on-one" concept of Nike-X. Such bombs would have the force of 100 or more megatons, more than 10 times the power of the Nike-X bursts.

Detonation of a few of these large rocket-carried bombs at the proper altitude and latitude could trap dense quantities of radiation particles in the earth's magnetic field.

The explosion would disable any missile within several miles, and within 30 minutes an artificial belt of radiation would encircle the globe. This umbrella would be strong enough to damage the electronic elements of nuclear warheads, rendering ineffective entire barrages of enemy missiles. It would not require the complex tracking radar of Nike-X, and it would not be hampered by decoys or maneuverable warheads.

The Defense Department also

is re-examining a concept called Project Bambi which was abandoned in 1964 as too costly. It envisions hundreds of satellites spaced out in low earth orbit so that several would be over enemy territories at all times.

Satellite sensors would detect a rising rocket, and the vehicle would immediately unleash clouds of metal projectiles to pierce and destroy the rocket before it got out of the atmosphere.

Systems under study by the United States include maneuverable nuclear attack ships that would fly directly at a target and satellites that would fly alongside an enemy payload. By electronic means, the latter could learn the contents of the suspected satellite and, if necessary, destroy it.

Jerry Patrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dane Patrick, left at noon Friday for Brazil, to visit the friends he made there, when he was with the Peace Corps for two years.

Jerry liked Brazil very much and wanted to return before he is called into the service. He will probably be there for three weeks.

The annual Salem Fish Fry at Salem Church will be held July 20. Everyone is welcome to come and enjoy the good food.

The WSCS of Kingston Methodist Church will meet at 2 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Effie Hildenbrand on Wednesday July 12.

The Senior M.Y.F. with their counselor, Mrs. Dwight Davis, are in camp this week at Lancaster Campground. The young people attending are Sherri Edler, Christy Edler, Peggy Phillips, Jeanne Beavers, Debbie Spriggs, Peggy French, Ann Timmons, Jody Kerns, Sue Ann Knisley, Mike Barnes, Max Schooley, Jim and Kristi Davis.

The Couples Club of the Methodist Church is planning an ice cream and cake party for all the members of the Kingston church, Saturday July 22. If any one would like to help them please call Mrs. William Meadows or Mrs. L. E. Hill. The party will be held on the church lawn at 7 p. m.

Dr. and Mrs. Clyde Reed of Harbor Hills came Thursday and spent the weekend at their home here.

Mrs. James Benzing and four sons of Hamilton spent from Wednesday through Friday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Freshour.

Mr. Tom Roos is being transferred from Mt. Vernon to Houston, Texas. Mr. and Mrs. Roos and three sons came Friday to visit for a week at the home of her father, Mrs. Forrest Kreisel. The twin boys were just a year old last Friday.

Neal Thomas, ATN3, who has been stationed at Norfolk, Va., is being transferred to Patuxent River, Maryland. He spent from Friday to Wednesday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Thomas and his brother, Steve, before going to his new assignment.

John Boggs who is in R.O.T.C. training at Fort Devos, Mass., spent a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Boggs and brother, Ned.

Mr. A. D. Ellis returned home Friday after spending more than a week in San Diego with his son, Col. John H. Ellis and Mrs. Ellis. He was there to attend the ceremonies in connection with the retirement of his son and the turning over of his command in the Marines.

Russian Troupe Tour Cancelled

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet officials called off a tour of the United States by 250 Russian dancers, singers and musicians because of tension over the Middle East and Vietnam, a source in the Ministry of Culture said today.

"If the international situation changes in a favorable way, then the group might go," the source said.

The Russian Festival of Music and Dance troupe had original been scheduled to open its tour July 5 in New York under the auspices of impresario Sol Hurok. Following the Arab-Israeli war, which caused an angry new Soviet-American dispute, the Russians postponed the tour.

In order to make arrangements for theaters and other facilities, Hurok set a new starting date of July 17 without any Soviet assurance that it would be met, the Cultural Ministry source said. Tuesday, Hurok's New York office said the Soviet Embassy in Washington had informed it the tour was "postponed indefinitely."

Strike Talks Under Pressure

Rail Union Leaders Prod Congressmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — House and Senate conferees still trying to agree on legislation to prevent a nationwide rail strike indicate they're displeased about increased pressure from the six rail unions involved.

The unions told congressmen Tuesday they will withdraw their interim pledge against a nationwide strike unless Congress agrees soon on the legislation.

The conferees planned a series of meetings today after reaching no agreement Tuesday.

Chairman Harley O. Staggers, D-W. Va., of the House Commerce Committee said he has "high hopes we can reach some agreement."

But he said he questioned the timing of the unions' statement "a little bit." Several conferees said privately that the letter from Joseph W. Ramsey of the six-union negotiating committee complicated matters.

The unions pledged not to strike pending congressional action after the Senate and House approved differing anti-strike plans in mid-June.

Ramsey said the unions are setting no strike date but would withdraw their pledge if the conferees make no progress by Saturday.

About 137,000 rail workers are involved. They seek a 6.5 per cent pay raise this year and 5 per cent next year, plus an extra 12.5 cents per hour in each year for skilled workers.

The railroads reportedly last offered a 6 per cent general pay increase for 18 months and a 5-cent extra increase for skilled workers. Skilled workers now average $3.05, the others $2.94.

USDA Releases Crop Predictions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Agriculture announced Tuesday the crop predictions this year for Ohio.

Corn for grain: 5,333,000 acres for harvest, 81 bushels per acre yield, 269,973,000 bushels production.

Winter wheat: 1,491,000 acres for harvest, 38 bushels per acre yield, 56,658,000 bushels production.

Oats: 520,000 acres for harvest, 55 bushels per acre yield, 28,600,000 bushels production.

Sugar beets: 25,000 acres for harvest, 16 tons per acre yield, 400,000 tons production.

Tobacco: 9,900 acres for harvest, 2,124 pounds per acre yield, 21,025,000 pounds production. The forecast also indicated Ohio would produce 2,400,000 bushels of apples with 2,231,000 acres of soybeans for harvest.

Last Meeting For Year Held by BPW

The Business and Professional Women's Club of Circleville recently held their last business meeting for the 1966-67 club year in St. Philip's Episcopal Church Parish House. Twenty-nine members and guests were present for the dinner meeting.

Mrs. Joan Wagner, president, presided at the opening of the business portion of the meeting. Miriam Weaver, chairman of the membership committee for 1966-67, assisted by Joann Brink, Daisy Karleskint and Etha Mae Wolford, gave recognition to the new members, Margaret Crites, Jane Speakman, present at the meeting, and Jeanette Townsend and Louise Hille.

Following the membership committee's recognition of the new members, Esther Work read an article on the "History of the Business and Professional Women's Club." Mrs. Leora Sayre outlined the duties of the various committees that make a successful and worthwhile club.

Joan Wagner then concluded her part of the meeting by thanking all members for the help given her during the past club year. All members then repeated the pledge of the club. Joan Wagner presented the club gavel to Leora Sayre, president for the 1967-68 year. Esther Work and Leora Sayre presented Joan a club pin and other gifts.

The following officers were installed for the next club year: Leora Sayre, president; Pearl Defenbaugh, 1st vice president; Joann Brink, 2nd vice president; Margaret Crites, recording secretary; Margaret Whaley, corresponding secretary and Harriett Kaylor, treasurer. Each new officer was presented a vase of carnations.

The new president immediately started the activity for the next club year. Committee's were appointed as follows: personal development, Joan Wagner, chairman; civic participation, Etha Mae Wolford and Genevra Ullman, co-chairmen; world affairs, Emma Curlett, chairman; membership, Daisy Karleskint, chairman; federation, Mary K. Kennedy, chairman; career advancement, Ruth Hulse, chairman; finance, Miriam Weaver, chairman; music, Pearl Defenbaugh, chairman; public relations, Freda Collins, chairman; legislation, Nancy Conrad, chairman; anniversary, Clarissa Talbot, chairman and insurance, Margaret Whaley, chairman.

Nancy Conrad and Virginia Kuhn gave a very detailed report of their attendance in Toledo, on May 19-21, at the 47th annual state convention.

It was announced a Board of Directors meeting would be held July 27, at the home of Mrs. Pearl Defenbaugh.

By the decision of the club members present, there will be no picnic in August. The first meeting for the club will be held in September. Time and place to be announced later.

We Maintain Our Own Service

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Things Could Be a Lot Worse

DEAR ABBY: Please come to our rescue as soon as possible! The terrific heat, which requires that we keep our windows open, plus our "problem", make things unbearable.

A very lovely, cultured, retired lady in our neighborhood "practices" the piano every morning, afternoon, and evening. She owns a fine grand piano whose tone carries great distances. Altho she practices most of the day, she never seems to improve. We know every note of every piece she practices, and have even come to know when to expect the wrong notes.

We can't ask her not to play so loudly, or to keep her windows closed, or she would be offended. And we can't close ours. The newsboy who delivers our paper, delivers the same paper to her, so she must read your column. Please publish this. She is too nice to hurt.

Salem WCTU Holds Meeting In Rice Home

Miss Edna Rice and Mrs. Ruth Woolever were co-hostesses for the Tuesday meeting of the Salem Women's Christian Temperance Union, in the home of Miss Rice.

Mrs. Paul Hankins Sr. opened the meeting with a tribute to patriotism. Mrs. Woolever assisted by reading "United Citizens", from the Union Signal, the theme of the month.

Scripture, meditation and prayer were given by vice president, Mrs. Pearl Patrick, using as her theme, "Time of Evaluation".

The members joined in reading in unison the hymn "Advance — Not Retreat". Pledges to the American, temperance and Christian flags were given. In keeping with the education department and spiritual life, the president displayed a worship setting from Vacation Bible School. A teachers packet and nine other books were reviewed and will be placed in the local school libraries next fall.

Salem Union members voiced concern about the welfare of future generations and feel sure that this material will be most worthwhile as it is being promoted by national headquarters of WCTU in Evanston, Ill., and state headquarters, Columbus.

A leaflet, entitled "Who Says the Social Drinker Isn't Dangerous?" was given to all members to display in their local churches.

During the business session, the following members were elected as officers for the coming year: Mrs. Paul Hankins Sr., president; Mrs. Pearl Patrick, vice president; Mrs. Ira Barr, secretary; Miss Edna Rice, treasurer and Mrs. Nora Dyer, news reporter.

WCTU Day will be observed at Stoutsville camp ground, July 28. Cards of cheer were signed for Mrs. Louise Rader and Mrs. Alva Dyer.

A dessert course was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Durbin Allen closed the meeting with a friendship circle of prayer.

but we are suffering.

SILENT SUFFERERS
DEAR ABBY: You have my sympathy. But have you ever considered how lucky you are that this lady doesn't study voice, with a penchant for opera?

DEAR ABBY: We were four girls and two boys brought up in a Jewish home, so we never had ham, bacon, or pork in our house. Now that we are all grown and married, none of us has preserved the dietary customs, but our parents do. I must admit, mama and papa are very broad-minded about our liberal attitude.

My oldest sister has a beautiful home, and when she has mama and papa over she serves them a dairy dinner, but she always put a big pork roast on the table for everyone else.

Mama and papa have never said anything, but I know they are hurt.

I once told my sister I thought she was out of line to put pork on the table with mama and papa there, and she said, "I'm no hypocrite. We have pork in this house, and they know it, so why hide it? Besides, in MY home I'll serve whatever I like." I still think my sister is wrong. Or am I?

THE YOUNGEST
DEAR YOUNGEST: Your sister is not only wrong, she's childish, disrespectful, and mean. She's trying to show contempt for the old traditions and at the same time let mama and papa know that she's her own boss now and can do as she pleases. But she doesn't have to hit them over the head with a pork roast to make her point.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for 30 years. I am 52 and believe me, Abby, there is nothing wrong with me. I'm refined, educated, and nice looking. People tell me I look like 40. I go to gym and keep myself fit. I don't want to sound like a bragger, but I could take a job as a topless waitress if I wanted to. Enough about me. My problem is my husband. He wants a divorce. He says he doesn't have anybody else, he just wants to be free. I think he's lying, but I can't catch him. We have grown children who think he is crazy. They don't want me to give him a divorce.

I am ashamed to say this, but I still care for him and can't throw 30 years of marriage out the window. Am I wrong to refuse to give him a divorce?

HANGING ON

DEAR HANGING: No. DEAR ABBY: My husband and I would like to keep a tiger as a house pet, but people tell me there is a law against it. What law? We do not live in the city, we live in the country. We would have the tiger defanged and declawed and he would be kept in a sturdy cage to preclude his getting loose.

He couldn't do damage to any property but our own. The tiger is only a cub now and could be easily trained. Can you give me any good reason why the law would have anything to say about this?

LOVES ANIMALS
DEAR LOVES: I can't, but a lawyer might. You may not keep a pet in violation of laws prohibiting cruelty to animals. Better clear this with your local humane society.

MISS MARIE F. JOHNSON
Johnson-Audrey Engagement Is Announced

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Johnson Sr., 317 E. Corwin St., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Marie Frances, to Sonny Waddell Audrey.

Miss Johnson is a graduate of Circleville High School and is presently employed by the General Electric Lamp Plant.

Mr. Audrey is a graduate of Rodgers High School, Brooklyn, N. Y. He has served in the armed forces and is now employed at the Federal Glass Company in Columbus.

The wedding will be an event of August 12, at the St. Paul AME Church.

Pickaway County GC Plans August Meet

Mrs. H. F. Edwards announced that the next meeting of the Pickaway County Garden Club will be August 8, at the Presbyterian Church social rooms, during the latest meeting of the club in the home of Mrs. Darrell Hatfield.

The ways and means committee requested members to save items for a white elephant sale to be held at the next meeting. The speaker will be Harry Plumer and he will discuss gladiolus.

Hosts were: Mrs. Hatfield, chairman; Handy Hatfield, Mrs. Theodore L. Huston, Mrs. L. E. Foreman, Mrs. Ray Carroll, Mrs. J. O. Eagleson and Mrs. Goldie Byers.

Guild 8 Cancels July Meeting

Berger Hospital Guild 8 will not meet on Tuesday as previously scheduled. The next meeting will be held August 13, with time and place announced at a later time.

Garden Club Plans Products Party

A products party will be held at 8 p. m. Wednesday in the Orjient Church annex, sponsored by the Commercial Point Garden Club. The public is invited.

Personals

Mrs. Frank Barnhill Sr., 1008 N. Court St., has been entertaining Mrs. George Welker, Tampa, Fla., as her house guest this past week. Mrs. Welker is now in Columbus visiting other friends and relatives before returning to her home.

Mt. Pleasant Group Meets

Ten members and two guests were present when the Mt. Pleasant WSCS met in the home of Mrs. Oscar Atwood Tuesday evening. Mrs. Phyllis Hudak was a assisting hostess. The guests were Mrs. William Smith and Lois Atwood.

Mrs. Atwood, president, opened the meeting with the hymn "Dwelling in Beulah Land". Devotions were given by Mrs. Foster Jenne.

During the business session the society voted not to have the stock sale dinner August 16.

Mrs. Atwood appointed the following committees for the year 1967-68: ways and means, Deskey Posey, chairman, Nelle Hopkins, Mary Greene, Edrie Baird, Grace Puffinbarger, Lois Palmer and Carlene Rozelle; special events, Marivel Mace, chairman, Hyacinth Dearth, Marlene Moody, Eleanor Miller, Lily Baird, Amy Rittinger, and Marlene Metzger; visitation and hospitality, Jean Rittinger, chairman, Helen Counts, Lorraine Brown, Bea Bumgarner, Phyllis Hudak and Ruth Jenne; flowers and gifts, Anna Moss; cards, Eleanor Mowery, and music, Ruth Jenne.

A thank you note was read from Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Palmer.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Bumgarner, who gave an interesting report on the Methodist Conference held at Lakeside.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by the hostesses. The next meeting will be August 8, one week later than usual because of the Pickaway County Fair.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy has made public its investigation file on the disappearance of aviatrix Amelia Earhart 30 years ago.

Miss Earhart and her navigator, Fred Noonan, vanished while flying across the Pacific, and there has been much speculation they were on a spying mission for the United States, were captured by the Japanese, and were executed or died in prison.

The Navy files conclude that after leaving Lae, New Guinea, they missed their destination, Howland Island, ran out of fuel and crashed into the sea.

The files contain a letter dated Jan. 18, 1945, from FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover regarding a report from a serviceman of "unknown reliability" who reported he had overheard a conversation in English between two Japanese officers saying Miss Earhart was alive and being held in Tokyo. The serviceman said the conversation had occurred in a hotel in the Philippines before World War II.

Turnpike May Be State's Safest

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Turnpike, which sweeps across 240 miles in the northern part of the state may be the safest highway in Ohio, a research report shows.

The 1965 turnpike accident rate was 87.7 mishaps per 100 million vehicle miles, according to Robert Vecellio, a civil engineering graduate student at Ohio State University.

Vecellio, a student in OSU's transportation accident research graduate education training program, said the figure compares with a rate of 110 accidents per 100 million vehicle miles on Ohio's Interstate Highway System.

The accident rate on the state's rural highways is much higher, he said, or 267 mishaps per 100 million vehicle miles.

Arraignment Slated In Ironton Stabbing

IRONTON, Ohio (AP)—Gary S. Thacker, 21, is scheduled to appear in municipal court here Friday on a charge of cutting with intent to kill in the stabbing of Ironton policeman Billie Daugherty.

Thacker, who was sought by authorities in three states, surrendered at the sheriff's office here Wednesday night. Daugherty, who is listed in good condition at a hospital here, was stabbed early Wednesday when he and another policeman were investigating a fight at a tavern.

Last Meeting For Year Held by BPW

The Business and Professional Women's Club of Circleville recently held their last business meeting for the 1966-67 club year in St. Philip's Episcopal Church Parish House. Twenty-nine members and guests were present for the dinner meeting.

Mrs. Joan Wagner, president, presided at the opening of the business portion of the meeting. Miriam Weaver, chairman of the membership committee for 1966-67, assisted by Joann Brink, Daisy Karleskint and Elba Mae Wolford, gave recognition to the new members, Margaret Crites, Jane Speakman, present at the meeting, and Jeanette Townsend and Louise Hille.

Following the membership committee's recognition of the new members, Esther Work read an article on the "History of the Business and Professional Women's Club." Mrs. Leora Sayre outlined the duties of the various committees that make a successful and worthwhile club.

Joan Wagner then concluded her part of the meeting by thanking all members for the help given her during the past club year. All members then repeated the pledge of the club. Joan Wagner presented the club gavel to Leora Sayre, president for the 1967-68 year. Esther Work and Leora Sayre presented Joan a club pin and other gifts.

The following officers were installed for the next club year: Leora Sayre, president; Pearl Defenbaugh, 1st vice president; Joann Brink, 2nd vice president; Margaret Crites, recording secretary; Margaret Whaley, corresponding secretary and Harriet Kaylor, treasurer. Each new officer was presented a vase of carnations.

The new president immediately started the activity for the next club year. Committee's were appointed as follows: personal development, Joan Wagner, chairman; civic participation, Elba Mae Wolford and Genevra Ullman, co-chairmen; world affairs, Emma Curlett, chairman; membership, Daisy Karleskint, chairman; federation, Mary K. Kennedy, chairman; career advancement, Ruth Hulse, chairman; finance, Miriam Weaver, chairman; music, Pearl Defenbaugh, chairman; public relations, Freda Collins, chairman; legislation, Nancy Conrad, chairman; anniversary, Clarissa Talbot, chairman and insurance, Margaret Whaley, chairman.

Nancy Conrad and Virginia Kuhn gave a very detailed report of their attendance in Toledo, on May 19-21, at the 47th annual state convention.

It was announced a Board of Directors meeting would be held July 27, at the home of Mrs. Pearl Defenbaugh.

By the decision of the club members present, there will be no picnic in August. The first meeting for the club will be held in September. Time and place to be announced later.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Things Could Be a Lot Worse

DEAR ABBY: Please come to our rescue as soon as possible! The terrific heat, which requires that we keep our windows open, plus our "problem", make things unbearable.

A very lovely, cultured, retired lady in our neighborhood "practices" the piano every morning, afternoon, and evening. She owns a fine grand piano whose tone carries great distances. Altho she practices most of the day, she never seems to improve. We know every note of every piece she practices, and have even come to know when to expect the wrong notes.

We can't ask her not to play so loudly, or to keep her windows closed, or she would be offended. And we can't close ours. The newsboy who delivers our paper, delivers the same paper to her, so she must read your column. Please publish this. She is too nice to hurt.

Salem WCTU Holds Meeting In Rice Home

Miss Edna Rice and Mrs. Ruth Woolever were co-hostesses for the Tuesday meeting of the Salem Women's Christian Temperance Union, in the home of Miss Rice.

Mrs. Paul Hankins Sr. opened the meeting with a tribute to patriotism. Mrs. Woolever assisted by reading "United Citizens," from the Union Signal, the theme of the month.

Scripture, meditation and prayer were given by vice president, Mrs. Pearl Patrick, using as her theme, "Time of Evaluation."

The members joined in reading in unison the hymn "Advance — Not Retreat". Pledges to the American, temperance and Christian flags were given. In keeping with the education department and spiritual life, the president displayed a worship setting from Vacation Bible School. A teachers packet and nine other books were reviewed and will be placed in the local school libraries next fall.

Salem Union members voiced concern about the welfare of future generations and feel sure that this material will be most worthwhile as it is being promoted by national headquarters of WCTU in Evanston, Ill., and state headquarters, Columbus.

A leaflet, entitled "Who Says the Social Drinker Isn't Dangerous?" was given to all members to display in their local churches.

During the business session, the following members were elected as officers for the coming year: Mrs. Paul Hankins Sr., president; Mrs. Pearl Patrick, vice president; Mrs. Ira Barr, secretary; Miss Edna Rice, treasurer and Mrs. Nora Dyer, news reporter.

WCTU Day will be observed at Stoutsville camp ground, July 28. Cards of cheer were signed for Mrs. Louise Rader and Mrs. Alva Dyer.

A dessert course was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Durbin Allen closed the meeting with a friendship circle of prayer.

but we are suffering.

SILENT SUFFERERS
DEAR ABBY: You have my sympathy. But have you ever considered how lucky you are that this lady doesn't study voice, with a penchant for opera?

DEAR ABBY: We were four girls and two boys brought up in a Jewish home, so we never had ham, bacon, or pork in our house. Now that we are all grown and married, none of us has preserved the dietary customs, but our parents do. I must admit, mama and papa are very broad - minded about our liberal attitude.

My oldest sister has a beautiful home, and when she has mama and papa over she serves them a dairy dinner, but she always put a big pork roast on the table for everyone else.

Mama and papa have never said anything, but I know they are hurt.

I once told my sister I thought she was out of line to put pork on the table with mama and papa there, and she said, "I'm no hypocrite. We have pork in this house, and they know it, so why hide it? Besides, in MY home I'll serve whatever I like."

I still think my sister is wrong. Or am I?

THE YOUNGEST
DEAR YOUNGEST: Your sister is not only wrong, she's childish, disrespectful, and mean. She's trying to show contempt for the old traditions and at the same time let mama and papa know that she's her own boss now and can do as she pleases. But she doesn't have to hit them over the head with a pork roast to make her point.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for 30 years. I am 52 and believe me, Abby, there is nothing wrong with me. I'm refined, educated, and nice looking. People tell me I look like 40. I go to gym and keep myself fit. I don't want to sound like a bragger, but I could take a job as a topless waitress if I wanted to. Enough about me. My problem is my husband. He wants a divorce. He says he doesn't have anybody else, he just wants to be free. I think he's lying, but I can't catch him. We have grown children who think he is crazy. They don't want me to give him a divorce.

I am ashamed to say this, but I still care for him and can't throw 30 years of marriage out the window. Am I wrong to refuse to give him a divorce?

HANGING ON

DEAR HANGING: No. DEAR ABBY: My husband and I would like to keep a tiger as a house pet, but people tell me there is a law against it. What law? We do not live in the city, we live in the country. We would have the tiger defanged and declawed and he would be kept in a sturdy cage to preclude his getting loose. He couldn't do damage to any property but our own. The tiger is only a cub now and could be easily trained. Can you give me any good reason why the law would have anything to say about this?

LOVES ANIMALS

DEAR LOVES: I can't, but a lawyer might. You may not keep a pet in violation of laws prohibiting cruelty to animals. Better clear this with your local humane society.

MISS MARIE F. JOHNSON

Johnson-Audrey Engagement Is Announced

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Johnson Sr., 317 E. Corwin St., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Marie Frances, to Sonny Waddell Audrey.

Miss Johnson is a graduate of Circleville High School and is presently employed by the General Electric Lamp Plant.

Mr. Audrey is a graduate of Rodgers High School, Brooklyn, N. Y. He has served in the armed forces and is now employed at the Federal Glass Company in Columbus.

The wedding will be an event of August 12, at the St. Paul AME Church.

Pickaway County GC Plans August Meet

Mrs. H. F. Edwards announced that the next meeting of the Pickaway County Garden Club will be August 8, at the Presbyterian Church social rooms, during the latest meeting of the club in the home of Mrs. Darrell Hatfield.

The ways and means committee requested members to save items for a white elephant sale to be held at the next meeting. The speaker will be Harry Plumer and he will discuss gladioli.

Hosts were: Mrs. Hatfield, chairman; Handy Hatfield, Mrs. Theodore L. Huston, Mrs. L. E. Foreman, Mrs. Ray Carroll, Mrs. J. O. Eagleson and Mrs. Goldie Byers.

Guild 8 Cancels July Meeting

Berger Hospital Guild 8 will not meet on Tuesday as previously scheduled. The next meeting will be held August 15, with time and place announced at a later time.

Garden Club Plans Products Party

A products party will be held at 8 p. m. Wednesday in the Orient Church annex, sponsored by the Commercial Point Garden Club. The public is invited.

Personals

Mrs. Frank Barnhill Sr., 1008 N. Court St., has been entertaining Mrs. George Welker, Tampa, Fla., as her house guest this past week. Mrs. Welker is now in Columbus visiting other friends and relatives before returning to her home.

Mt. Pleasant Group Meets

Ten members and two guests were present when the Mt. Pleasant WSCS met in the home of Mrs. Oscar Atwood Tuesday evening. Mrs. Phyllis Hudak was a assisting hostess. The guests were Mrs. William Smith and Lois Atwood.

Mrs. Atwood, president, opened the meeting with the hymn "Dwelling in Beulah Land". Devotions were given by Mrs. Foster Jenne.

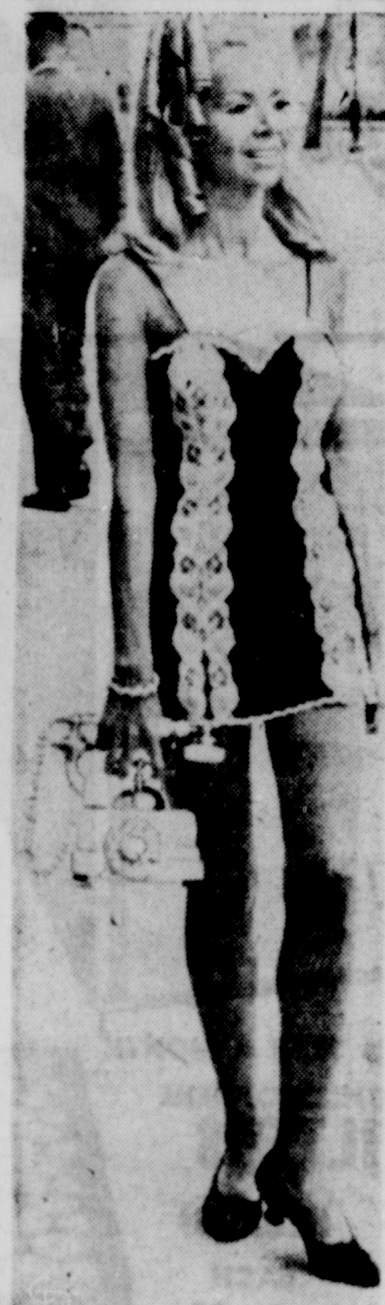

During the business session the society voted not to have the stock sale dinner August 16.

Mrs. Atwood appointed the following committees for the year 1967-68: ways and means, Deskey Posey, chairman, Nelle Hopkins, Mary Greene, Edrie Baird, Grace Puffinbarger, Lois Palmer and Carlene Rozelle; special events, Marivel Mace, chairman, Hyacinth De earth, Marlene Moody, Eleanor Miller, Lily Baird, Amy Rittinger, and Marlene Metzger; visitation and hospitality, Jean Rittinger, chairman, Helen Counts, Lorraine Brown, Bea Bumgarner, Phyllis Hudak and Ruth Jenne; flowers and gifts, Anna Moss; cards, Eleanor Mowery, and music, Ruth Jenne.

A thank you note was read from Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Palmer.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Bumgarner, who gave an interesting report on the Methodist Conference held at Lakeside.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by the hostesses. The next meeting will be August 8, one week later than usual because of the Pickaway County Fair.

Today in Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy has made public its investigation file on the disappearance of aviatrix Amelia Earhart 30 years ago.

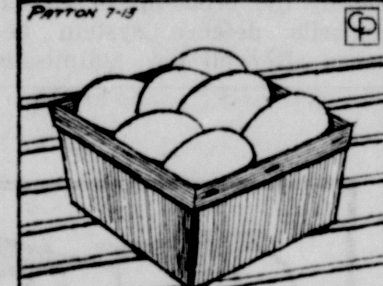

Miss Earhart and her navigator, Fred Noonan, vanished while flying across the Pacific, and there has been much speculation they were on a spying mission for the United States, were captured by the Japanese, and were executed or died in prison.

The Navy files conclude that after leaving Lae, New Guinea, they missed their destination, Howland Island, ran out of fuel and crashed into the sea.

The files contain a letter dated Jan. 18, 1945, from FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover regarding a report from a serviceman of "unknown reliability" who reported he had overheard a conversation in English between two Japanese officers saying Miss Earhart was alive and being held in Tokyo. The serviceman said the conversation had occurred in a hotel in the Philippines before World War II.

Turnpike May Be State's Safest

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Turnpike, which sweeps across 240 miles in the northern part of the state may be the safest highway in Ohio, a research report shows.

The 1965 turnpike accident rate was 87.7 mishaps per 100 million vehicle miles, according to Robert Vecellio, a civil engineering graduate student at Ohio State University.

Vecellio, a student in OSU's transportation accident research graduate education training program, said the figure compares with a rate of 110 accidents per 100 million vehicle miles on Ohio's Interstate Highway System.

The accident rate on the state's rural highways is much higher, he said, or 267 mishaps per 100 million vehicle miles.

Arraignment Slated In Ironton Stabbing

IRONTON, Ohio (AP)—Gary S. Thacker, 21, is scheduled to appear in municipal court here Friday on a charge of cutting with intent to kill in the stabbing of Ironton policeman Billie Daugherty.

Thacker, who was sought by authorities in three states, surrendered at the sheriff's office here Wednesday night. Daugherty, who is listed in good condition at a hospital here, was stabbed early Wednesday when he and another policeman were investigating a fight at a tavern.

EDITOR'S NOTE — Mary Margaret McBride, after more than two decades as radio's first lady operating out of New York City, now lives 100 miles from the city, presides over a three-times weekly local radio show on Kingston's WGHI, writes an occasional book and for a couple of hours a day visits with some electronic friends. Here she makes her annual report on the goings-on among the washtub weepers.

WEST SHOKAN, N.Y. (AP) — Until just recently I was visited regularly, five days a week, by a young woman charged with pushing her mother down a flight of stairs and breaking her neck. I don't see her so much now that she's been "acquitted" by a jury.

Another of my daily visitors was in trouble — she was about to have what used to be called a fatherless child. Then along came a nice young fellow who knew all but married her anyway. She had the baby — every one thought it was the nice young man's — and promptly was overwhelmed with such guilt feelings that she couldn't be a good wife or proper mother.

Just when things seemed darkest, she got a job in the office of a pediatrician, was exposed to a lot of babies, and before I could say "detergent" she made an adjustment to her unwanted child and the marriage was saved.

Quick changes like this don't happen everywhere. All of my troubled callers are among the sorely beset characters in the four daytime serials that have become part of my life in the years since I left New York to survey this turbulent globe from the serenity of a mountain-side home in the Catskills.

Life in the soap operas, so full of drama, anguish and terrible events, has made me feel that I inhabit a humdrum world. Maybe my neighbors suffer, but they do it quietly, not with the noisy desperation of my television friends. And, I must say, people I know seldom announce suddenly that they are moving to France or Timbuctu, then depart, never to be heard of again.

However, those of us who are hard-core soap opera fans have come to understand these sudden comings and goings. Long before the nasty mother fell or was pushed down that flight of stairs, it seemed pretty obvious that she would have to be got rid of somehow. The actress playing the part, I decided, had made other plans — a film job or perhaps a summer stock tour called her.

Soap opera families are, in this day of individual homes and great geographical separation from loved ones, a substitute for the big, neighborly way of life in another, more leisurely age.

Young mothers with only children for company most of the day react to the soaps as they would to a kaffeeklatch with mothers, mothers-in-law and next door neighbors in another day. And certainly there is more excitement in even the tamest daytime serial than in the liveliest local gossip.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — It seemed so simple. Congo President Joseph D. Mobutu asked this country for some cargo planes to help him put down a revolt led by white mercenaries and rebel Congolese troops about 1,000 miles northeast of Kinshasa, the capital.

This doesn't sound complicated. This government had publicly proclaimed support of Mobutu's regime. And it wouldn't be the first time the United States had helped the central Congolese government against revolt.

So, it might seem, all Mobutu had to do was ask for help again. But this was where it got complicated because anything like that has to go through a process, sometimes called machinery.

Mobutu sent his request Thursday, July 6, through a cablegram to his ambassador in Washington. The ambassador took it to the State Department at the same time the department was being told of Mobutu's request in a cablegram from Robert McBride, the U.S. ambassador in the Congo.

The next day McBride followed up his first cablegram with another, saying he approved. By then the wheels were in motion. President Johnson at his Texas ranch had been informed. So had Dean Rusk, secretary of state.

Meanwhile, the request had to go through the process at the State Department. There it went to the Bureau of African Affairs where it got the instant attention of the bureau's Congo task force, headed by Dean Brown.

It was discussed and huddled over by the members of the bureau and the task force and by Wayne Frederick, acting secretary of state for African affairs.

Meanwhile, there had been trips to the office of Rusk who also conferred with some of the top people around him. Finally the bureau and task force approved, and so notified Frederick, who also approved and so notified Rusk.

Rusk, who had been in touch with Johnson by phone, also approved. So did Johnson. The decision to go ahead was reached Saturday, July 8. But before there could be any public announcement, Johnson told Rusk, key members of Congress had to be informed. They were, and the announcement was made Sunday, July 9.

But the State Department doesn't have transport planes. So meanwhile it had to discuss the problem with the Department of Defense. This was done by contacting the Defense Department's Office for International Security, headed by Assistant Secretary John McNaughton.

Then the Mobutu request, along with the State Department's thinking, went to the Joint Chiefs of Staff and to Paul H. Nitze, acting secretary of defense at the time since Robert S. McNamara, the secretary of defense, was in Vietnam.

Nitze and the Joint Chiefs concurred with the State Department. Now all that was needed was to send the planes. The Joint Chiefs' order to do this was sent to the U.S. Strike Command at MacDill Air Force base, Tampa, Fla.

The strike command is responsible for keeping military personnel in readiness for instant service anywhere.

Orders also went to the Tactical Air Command at Langley

Field, Va., and to the Continental Army Command at nearby Ft. Monroe, Va. and, if this isn't complicated enough, the planes — three four-engine transports — took off late Saturday from Pope Air Force Base in North Carolina.

They had about 126 troops aboard, some mechanics and some paratroopers to guard the planes when Mobutu sent them where he wanted them to go. Neither the planes nor the men were supposed to get involved anywhere close to the direct action.

Some of the top Democrats and Republicans in Congress expressed dismay at this action, fearing it might mean involvement in another war, but John-son's press secretary, George Christian, said the matter had been studied at great length before the decision was made.

Can Ohio Wisely Use Grants To Rehabilitate Jobless?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio has turned down $18 million in federal money the last two years to vocationally rehabilitate its handicapped.

And it is likely that another $10 million or more will be rejected next year.

But it isn't as bad as it sounds. The problem basically is that Ohio hasn't been able to match the federal funds—on a $1-for-$3 basis.

And, officials of the Ohio Bureau of Vocational Rehabilitation (BVR) and the State Finance Department disagreed on whether the federal money is necessary.

"We could use the total allotment," said Cooper Sontag, assistant director in charge of the BVR's program development. "The need is certainly there," he added.

However, Duane Rogers, senior finance analyst for Ohio, said the state can't spend all the federal cash available wisely on rehabilitation projects.

He said Ohio's vocational rehabilitation program's size hinged on the state budget and BVR money comes from the heavily taxed general fund.

Rogers said the rehabilitation fund is one of the few programs where "we haven't taken full advantage of federal dollars."

The Highway Department, for example, regularly gets adequate state funds to match its federal allotment—10 times that of BVR's. But it gets its state funds from gasoline tax.

Of a maximum $13.4 million allotted by the U.S. government for the 1966-67 fiscal year, only $4.8 million was matched by Ohio. The year before, Ohio used only $2.8 million of a $12.3 million allocation.

Miss Lois Elsasser, supervisor of finance and statistics for the rehabilitation bureau, said an even larger grant — $15.5 million—has been offered Ohio for the next fiscal year.

The bureau seeks to train 3,200 physically, mentally and emotionally handicapped Ohio residents, including a few ex-convicts with little education.

The average cost of preparing a disabled person is $1,340 a year, the BVR reported. The report estimated a rehabilitated person repays this amount in taxes within three to five years after he returns to work.

Nevada Speed Limit?

The idea, long shunned by Nevada, is being pushed by Art Latta, state director of motor vehicles, and Don Brown, superintendent of the Nevada Highway Patrol.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, July 13, the 194th day of 1967. There are 171 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1960, John F. Kennedy won the Democratic presidential nomination at the Democratic National Convention in Los Angeles.

On this date: In 1863, draft riots broke out in New York City.

In 1878, the Russo-Turkish War ended.

In 1919, the first dirigible to cross the Atlantic, the British R-34, completed its round trip.

In 1943, British forces occupied the Sicilian port of Augusta.

Crownover-Mill Road Closed 24 Days

The Crownover-Mill Road will be closed between McCaffery-Crownover Mill Road and Southward-Buskirk Road for the next 24 days.

Pickaway County Engineer Henry T. McCrady announced the road will be closed while two bridges in Monroe Twp. are being replaced.

Bill Would Protect Tavern Owners When Area Goes Dry

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Rep. Margaret Dennison R-98 Warren has called for passage of legislation to save liquor permits of bar owners forced to close their doors by local option elections.

Mrs. Dennison said Tuesday night a bill she is co-sponsoring would provide that such permits be placed in "safekeeping" until the owner can find a new location in an area not affected by such elections.

She testified before the House Government Operations Committee, which is considering two bills supported by the Department of Liquor Control, the Ohio Council of Alcohol Problems, and others.

Mrs. Dennison noted that under present law, permits in newly dry areas automatically are canceled but that bars may remain open pending appeals from cancellation. She said several places in Warren have continued to operate despite adverse decisions by electors in some precincts.

Ohio's Administrative Procedures Act permits appeals from decisions of the State Board of Liquor Control and they often drag on for months and even years, she said.

Mrs. Dennison said the present method of automatic cancellation is "harsh" and often puts respectable persons out of business and at the bottom of permit application lists under the state's local license quota system. "The top man on the list in Warren has been waiting since 1956," she told the committee.

In response to a question, Mrs. Dennison said the bill provides that persons transferring a license from a new dry area to a wet area would be limited to the municipal corporation for which the permit was issued initially.

On Tuesday, the Senate gave 30-1 approval to another bill which deletes a present requirement that a permit is canceled on the death of the owner, or due to sale or bankruptcy of the business.

Escapes in Custody

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Four escapees from the Athens city jail were captured Wednesday by city police and Athens County sheriff's deputies on a rural road about five miles east of here.

Police said they escaped by removing bricks from their cell wall.

They were identified by police as Robert Dellinger, held on a check charge, David K. Jett and Thomas Shamblin, military men held on charges of being absent without leave, and Thomas Koffman, held on an intoxication charge.

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — It seemed so simple. Congo President Joseph D. Mobutu asked this country for some cargo planes to help him put down a revolt led by white mercenaries and rebel Congolese troops about 1,000 miles northeast of Kinshasa, the capital.

This doesn't sound complicated. This government had publicly proclaimed support of Mobutu's regime. And it wouldn't be the first time the United States had helped the central Congolese government against revolt.

So, it might seem, all Mobutu had to do was ask for help again. But this was where it got complicated because anything like that has to go through a process, sometimes called machinery.

Mobutu sent his request Thursday, July 6, through a cablegram to his ambassador in Washington. The ambassador took it to the State Department at the same time the department was being told of Mobutu's request in a cablegram from Robert McBride, the U.S. ambassador in the Congo.

The next day McBride followed up his first cablegram with another, saying he approved. By then the wheels were in motion. President Johnson at his Texas ranch had been informed. So had Dean Rusk, secretary of state.

Meanwhile, the request had to go through the process at the State Department. There it went to the Bureau of African Affairs where it got the instant attention of the bureau's Congo task force, headed by Dean Brown.

It was discussed and huddled over by the members of the bureau and the task force and by Wayne Frederick, acting secretary of state for African affairs.

Meanwhile, there had been trips to the office of Rusk who also conferred with some of the top people around him. Finally the bureau and task force approved, and so notified Frederick, who also approved and so notified Rusk.

Rusk, who had been in touch with Johnson by phone, also approved. So did Johnson. The decision to go ahead was reached Saturday, July 8. But before there could be any public announcement, Johnson told Rusk, key members of Congress had to be informed. They were, and the announcement was made Sunday, July 9.

But the State Department doesn't have transport planes. So meanwhile it had to discuss the problem with the Department of Defense. This was done by contacting the Defense Department.

partment's Office for International Security, headed by Assistant Secretary John McNaughton.

Then the Mobutu request, along with the State Department's thinking, went to the Joint Chiefs of Staff and to Paul H. Nitze, acting secretary of defense at the time since Robert S. McNamara, the secretary of defense, was in Vietnam.

Nitze and the Joint Chiefs concurred with the State Department. Now all that was needed was to send the planes. The Joint Chiefs' order to do this was sent to the U.S. Strike Command at MacDill Air Force base, Tampa, Fla.

The strike command is responsible for keeping military personnel in readiness for instant service anywhere.

Orders also went to the Tactical Air Command at Langley

Field, Va., and to the Continental Army Command at nearby Ft. Monroe, Va., and, if this isn't complicated enough, the planes — three four-engine transports — took off late Saturday from Pope Air Force Base in North Carolina.

They had about 126 troops aboard, some mechanics and some paratroopers to guard the planes when Mobutu sent them where he wanted them to go. Neither the planes nor the men were supposed to get involved anywhere close to the direct action.

Some of the top Democrats and Republicans in Congress expressed dismay at this action, fearing it might mean involvement in another war, but Johnson's press secretary, George Christian, said the matter had been studied at great length before the decision was made.

Can Ohio Wisely Use Grants To Rehabilitate Jobless?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio has turned down $18 million in federal money the last two years to vocationally rehabilitate its handicapped.

And it is likely that another $10 million or more will be rejected next year.

But it isn't as bad as it sounds. The problem basically is that Ohio hasn't been able to match the federal funds — on a $1-for-$3 basis.

And, officials of the Ohio Bureau of Vocational Rehabilitation (BVR) and the State Finance Department disagreed on whether the federal money is necessary.

"We could use the total allotment," said Cooper Sontag, assistant director in charge of the BVR's program development. "The need is certainly there," he added.

However, Duane Rogers, senior finance analyst for Ohio, said the state can't spend all the federal cash available wisely on rehabilitation projects.

He said Ohio's vocational rehabilitation program's size hinged on the state budget and BVR money comes from the heavily taxed general fund.

Rogers said the rehabilitation fund is one of the few programs where "we haven't taken full advantage of federal dollars."

The Highway Department, for example, regularly gets adequate state funds to match its federal allotment — 10 times that of BVR's. But it gets its state funds from gasoline tax.

Of a maximum $13.4 million allotted by the U.S. government for the 1966-67 fiscal year, only $4.8 million was matched by Ohio. The year before, Ohio used only $2.8 million of a $12.3 million allocation.

Miss Lois Elsass, supervisor of finance and statistics for the rehabilitation bureau, said an even larger grant — $15.5 million — has been offered Ohio for the next fiscal year.

The bureau seeks to train 3,200 physically, mentally and emotionally handicapped Ohio residents, including a few ex-convicts with little education.

The average cost of preparing a disabled person is $1,340 a year, the BVR reported. The report estimated a rehabilitated person repays this amount in taxes within three to five years after he returns to work.

Nevada Speed Limit?

The idea, long shunned by Nevada, is being pushed by Art Latta, state director of motor vehicles, and Don Brown, superintendent of the Nevada Highway Patrol.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, July 13, the 194th day of 1967. There are 171 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1960, John F. Kennedy won the Democratic presidential nomination at the Democratic National Convention in Los Angeles.

On this date: In 1863, draft riots broke out in New York City.

In 1878, the Russo-Turkish War ended.

In 1919, the first dirigible to cross the Atlantic, the British R-34, completed its round trip.

In 1943, British forces occupied the Sicilian port of Augusta.

Ten years ago — Heavy rainstorms left nine persons dead in Chicago.

Crownover-Mill Road Closed 24 Days

The Crownover-Mill Road will be closed between McCaffery-Crownover Mill Road and Southward-Buskirk Road for the next 24 days.

Pickaway County Engineer Henry T. McCrady announced the road will be closed while two bridges in Monroe Twp. are being replaced.

Bill Would Protect Tavern Owners When Area Goes Dry

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Rep. Margaret Dennison R-98 Warren has called for passage of legislation to save liquor permits of bar owners forced to close their doors by local option elections.

Mrs. Dennison said Tuesday night a bill she is co-sponsoring would provide that such permits be placed in "safekeeping" until the owner can find a new location in an area not affected by such elections.

She testified before the House Government Operations Committee, which is considering two bills supported by the Department of Liquor Control, the Ohio Council of Alcohol Problems, and others.

Mrs. Dennison noted that under present law, permits in newly dry areas automatically are canceled but that bars may remain open pending appeals from cancellation. She said several places in Warren have continued to operate despite adverse decisions by electors in some precincts.

Ohio's Administrative Procedures Act permits appeals from decisions of the State Board of Liquor Control and they often drag on for months and even years, she said.

Mrs. Dennison said the present method of automatic cancellation is "harsh" and often puts respectable persons out of business and at the bottom of permit application lists under the state's local license quota system. "The top man on the list in Warren has been waiting since 1956," she told the committee.

In response to a question, Mrs. Dennison said the bill provides that persons transferring a license from a new dry area to a wet area would be limited to the municipal corporation for which the permit was issued initially.

On Tuesday, the Senate gave 30-1 approval to another bill which deletes a present requirement that a permit is canceled on the death of the owner, or due to sale or bankruptcy of the business.

Purple Martin Apartments Becoming Common Sight

Purple Martins are popular all over America and this applies especially to Pickaway County. Just talk to a purple martin buff for ten minutes and you find yourself thinking about erecting a purple martin apartment house in your own backyard.

The Clyde Hoovers (North of Circleville on Route 23) have several purple martin apartment houses in their garden and no vacancies. One big apartment building on a tall pole has 24 apartments - and every one of them filled.

According to the Hoovers they are most interesting companions. Eight years ago when the Hoovers moved from Ashville to their present home they put up a martin house. Within a day or two "scout" martins had visited the place.

On their first visit they did not even light. Next day they were back. On their third visit the "scouts" lighted, inspected and chatted together. They were absent for about three days. Then six of them arrived and took up their abode.

Later others came. Even the first year the apartments were all filled. According to the Hoovers the birds live in the apartments about two or three weeks before they start their nests.

It interested the Hoovers when they observed that the martins did not all come at the same time. They seem to build nests at different times and they leave at different times.

Mrs. Hoover says that they appear to have four babies in each family.

The martins are quite used to the Hoovers and Clyde Hoover can mow the grass right under the apartment and they pay no attention or Mrs. Hoover can weed the flower borders, but if strangers make a to-do near them they will dive and swoop and chatter to make known their disapproval.

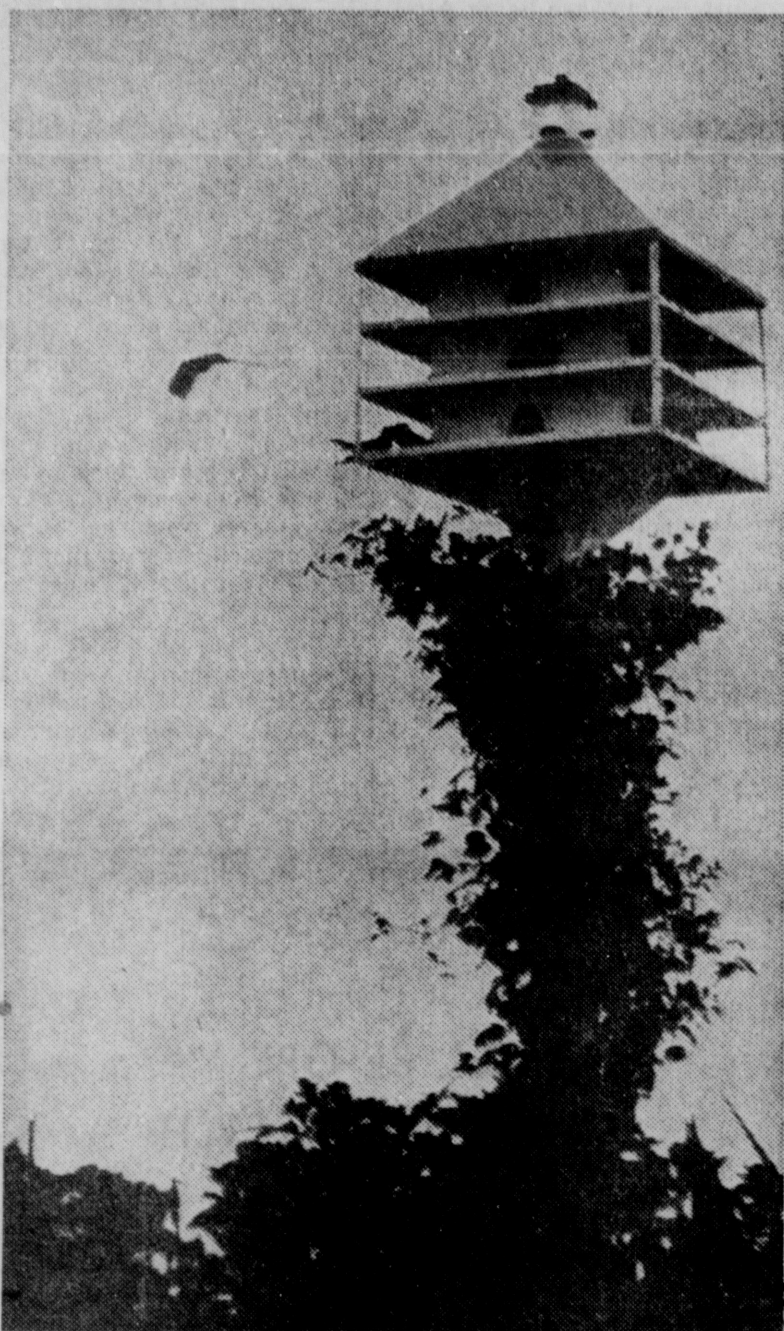

Once when the Hoovers lived in Ashville a martin couple arrived about the last of March. Because martins subsist entirely on insects the birds just sat for four days without moving. The Hoovers were concerned for their lives. They survived until the weather warmed up and the insects appeared.

Mrs. Hoover has been told that martins will eat hamburger if starving, but she has no idea how to place the hamburger so they will swoop down to get it.

Clyde Hoover says the birds mystified him by never drinking from the bird fountains in the garden. Then at Buckeye Lake he saw martins drink. They swoop down and scoop the water up with their beaks.

The Hoovers say that there is a farm pond near them. Now they are confident that the purple martins get their water from this source. And they even feel that their apartment houses are popular because of this nearby water supply.

Yes, martins do migrate. They winter in Venezuela and Brazil. They do not however all leave together. Often migrating visitors stop over at the Hoovers. A group of 30 or 30 birds will visit every day or two. The Hoovers believe that some linger until the last baby martins are mature enough for the flight south.

The Hoovers say martins love open spaces and electric wires. How they love electric wires! At times hundreds of martins will appear to sit on the wires.

Mrs. Hoover recalled that several years ago when she was visiting a niece on S. Pickaway St. they heard a great commotion and a lot of shooting. Neighbors had alerted city police about a congregation of starlings in trees and on electric wires. Police were shooting the birds and putting the dead in baskets.

Mrs. Hoover told them in no uncertain terms they were killing martins not starlings. She said the birds would not bother the neighborhood, for long. Then she enlisted the help of a local game warden who verified Mrs. Hoover's identification of the purple martins. Sure enough the birds took flight in a day or two.

The Hoovers are interested in the fact that the Ohio State Penitentiary is a favorite place

Brehmer Says

Brehmer Greenhouses suggest that this is the time of year to check your evergreens for bagworms on spruce, arbor vitae or junipers. To kill the worms, spray with two and a half level tablespoons to a gallon of water of arsenate of lead. Bagworms do not bother yews or pines.

Don't mow your lawn too close in the heat of summer. Experiments show that your lawn will benefit, during the heat of summer, if it is not cut too close. Set your reel type mower as high as you can. The new rotary mowers are ideal. If you keep the blade sharp and adjusted for higher cutting than the old reel type. Two and a half or even three inches during the heat of summer is ideal.

The higher cutting lets the blades of grass create more shade and holds more moisture in the soil. Since the food is manufactured in the leaves of grass, the longer leaves create more food and stay a deeper green color, as well as promoting new root growth.

Loose Leaved Cabbage Is New Vegetable

Loose-leaved Chinese cabbage is a new vegetable for the American taste that has been a long time favorite in oriental countries.

Actually it can be used wherever celery is used but it is a lot easier to grow.

The stalks are crisp and succulent with the mild pungency of Chinese Cabbage.

Each plant produces 8 to 12 thick, smooth, greenish white stalks topped with dark green, spoon-shaped leaves. Stalks are 7 to 8 inches long and shaped like celery.

Enjoy this new vegetable in your relish dish or cooked. Can be planted in July for harvesting in 45 days.

for purple martins to congregate for migration. And Mrs. Hoover says some year she's going to see them for she knows it will be quite a sight.

Purple martins originally build nests in tree hollows. They are completely "sold" now on man-made apartment dwellings. They like community life. It is known that they prefer martin houses to nesting cavities in trees.

Mrs. Miller Dunkel, 471 E. Main St., has had purple martins for seven years. Her martin house is an architectural achievement made after the manner of a New England Church complete with steeple and front pillars.

THIS YEAR THE martins did not come. She believes it may be because her two flowering crabs have grown so tall on either side of it and the martins, as is well known, prefer a space surrounding their homes. Mrs. Dunkel has already cut some limbs off her crabs and plans to do more extensive pruning for next year.

She noticed this spring that Bob Murray, 419 E. Main, had erected a new martin house. She accused him of luring her martins away. But Murray says not. In fact the martins have not come to the new metal apartment dwelling that he put up for them. He believes that perhaps martins do not like metal houses.

Walter Rase, Route 4, who sells Mormon Feeds, gives martin houses as a bonus to his customers.

One such customer is Harvey Sietz, Route 1, Ashville, who

Garden Gossip

Mrs. John Mast, Route 3, Circleville has a row of pink zinnias and a row of green zinnias planted in her garden.

Mrs. Clyde Hoover has yellow delphinium blooming in her flower border. It gives the appearance of a cream colored delphinium at a distance, but close-up the bee of the flower is definitely a clear yellow.

Mrs. George Van Camp of Oakwood Place was visiting with the Hoover's yellow delphinium when she visited their garden.

Mrs. Hoover also has "button" lilies. Flowers appear like buttons along the spike stem. A most attractive variety.

In a recent issue of Horticulture Magazine there is an article entitled "Butterflies in Your Garden" which tells what plants attract different butterflies.

We thought of Myrtie Noggle when we read the end of the article which reminded readers that the study of live butterflies was far more rewarding than the amassing of pinned insects.

Once we told Myrtie Noggle that we'd like to bring a butterfly net to her garden to catch butterflies for a collection (confidentially we did not even get as far as the net) but Myrtie was most firm. "Not in my garden", she said, "Nobody's going to chase butterflies around here."

Jack and Judy Goode, of J. S. Goode Nursery, have the most beautiful new brick patio at their place. Judy told her husband that if he started work on the patio they must be finished by the time she entertained the Nurses' Association. Nothing like a deadline! Jack had them finished.

Sue Montgomery brought home a beautiful bird with a rose colored patch on the breast which had been found dead in the Morris Evangelical United Brethren Churchyard. Her neighbor, Floyd Bartley, identified it as the rose-breasted grosbeak.

Floyd said that Vic Pontius had seen several of them together, near his home. Of Pontius the celebrated naturalist said, "He's a fine bird man".

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Garst of Albuquerque, New Mexico and their daughters are visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. Fred Minshall of Route 1, Kingston.

Mrs. Garst said that Wayside Gardens of Mentor, Ohio is a favorite mail order nursery out in New Mexico.

Gerald Kintner's parents are visiting him from Florida. They live near St. Petersburg and

Mr. Kintner has a collection of 26 hibiscus. One flower was so large they took out the measuring stick. It measured 12 inches in diameter. One of their favorites was yellow with a pink center. All are named varieties.

My sister who is summering in Spain in a northern resort city, Paseo de Butron, writes that hydrangea trees are glorious there. They are blue, pink and lavender.

The red and white petunias in the flower box in front of the Children's Shop makes a beautiful splash of color at 115 W. Main St.

The Pickaway County Garden Club did not put out the usual white petunias and red geraniums this year at the courthouse garden because they were warned that the sand-blasters were coming to clean the courthouse. The sand-blasting is in full swing now. Good thing the flowers were not planted!

Mrs. Nelson Bower, Route 1, Circleville, says her roses have been most satisfactory this season. This was a surprise because they were winter damaged almost down to the ground.

Mark Schumm, 580 N. Pickaway St., has a new security light that shines down on his rosebed. And his roses, ordinarily flowers of real grandeur, are a great disappointment. He has heard the rumor that security lights will effect roses.

An unidentified flower is considerable worry to me. Mrs. Turney Pontius has a planting of a pink spiked flowers that looks like a delicate hollyhock. She does not know its name. I wish I did.

Mrs. Tom Kyle's hollyhocks are as colorful as can be again this year. Her red hollyhocks particularly take my eye. She lives at 202 Eastmore.

Plant Marigolds Blossoms in 5 Weeks

Yellow Nugget marigolds were introduced by the W. Atlee Seed Co. in 1966. The height of this variety is one foot. They germinate within ten days of planting time.

This seed company advocates planting yellow nugget marigolds now for bloom at the same time ordinary marigolds planted weeks earlier will bloom.

The Burpee Company has also introduced Golden and Orange Nugget marigolds. These are like the yellow nuggets except in color.

We are assured that these foot high marigolds will be in bloom five weeks from planting time.

Ladies' 'Unmentionables' Getting More Mentionable

NEW YORK (AP) — Nothing in fashion history has attracted as much attention to lingerie as the miniskirt.

And as sometimes happens after being in the public eye, the industry is up to all sorts of antics to make certain it does not wind up once again as under cover to outerwear.

"Walkaroundables" is a word coined by Warner's Slimwear to describe one such antic among others demonstrated Tuesday at a week-long program of fall style previews called the American Designer Series.

Ignoring the fact that the outerwear industry had previously stolen their style by producing evening gowns that look like nightgowns and little dresses that look like slips, the underwear industry blithely brought out a line of bold patterned jersey pajamas and nighties. These are for sleeping in subways, park benches or beaches when there is no room at the inns.

Unmentionables with the intent of being mentioned after being seen under garments so short they barely cover their subject were more antics. Reg-imental stripes on the edges of pantie girdles match the regimental stripes on knee socks. Some girdles were flag striped or painted with pretty posies so any glimpse was a fashionable contribution to the over-all picture.

Hayley's a Big Girl Now —Her Latest Fling Says So

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The more avid movie fans long have displayed a reluctance to allow their favorites to grow up. Many followers of Judy Garland still see her as the wide-eyed Dorothy of "Wizard of Oz" searching over the rainbow, rather than as a woman with more than the usual troubles of middle age.

Likewise those who have followed the career of Hayley Mills —you loved her in "Parent Trap," thrilled to her in "Summer Magic"—will find trouble adjusting to the new image in which she has cast herself, on and off the screen.

Hayley visited here after a six-city tour in which she exhibited her new self. Significantly, she has been accompanied by the coproducer-director, with his twin brother John, of her latest film, Roy Boulting, with whom she is unabashedly in love. This despite the facts that he is 53 and still married.

"The divorce has been going on for four long years," remarked Hayley, who recently turned 21. "Such things move very slowly in England."

"As for our future plans, I can't say, really," added Boulting, a slender man with hair combed over his forehead, Beatle style.

"If I were to say I can scarcely wait to be divorced so I can marry Hayley, it might very well prejudice my case. The British courts are funny that way; they like to make the final determination."

The new film, "The Family Way," also seems likely to upset the Hayley Mills fans. She has gone the way of all flesh for actresses nowadays. The film

features a controversial scene in which she steps out of a bathtub and is viewed from the rear. The sequence almost caused "The Family Way" to be condemned by the National Catholic Office for Motion Pictures.

Boulting said that he had received "an impassioned telephone call" from a Warner Bros. executive, importuning him to come to New York and discuss the matter with the Catholic officials. The director was told that the 70-odd reviewers for the group thought the film was excellent, yet it could not be passed because of strictures against nudity in films.

"Then I suggest you return to your bishops and have them change the rules against nudity; I will not take out the scene," declared Boulting after due consultation.

Later he was notified that the condemned rating had been changed to "recommended for adults with reservations."

"After all, one can't go on playing young girls forever," she reasoned, "and there are so many exciting parts for girls in their 20s nowadays."

Climbing the pole of this highrise apartment building is a colorful Clematis, Jackmanii, with deep purple blossoms now in full glory. At the base of the pole is a circle of lilythum plants with red violet spikes. Notice the birds. They felt Pete Willis, Herald photographer, was invading their privacy and they let him know it.

will visit every day or two. The Hoovers believe that some linger until the last baby martins are mature enough for the flight south.

The Hoovers say martins love open spaces and electric wires. How they love electric wires! At times hundreds of martins will appear to sit on the wires.

Mrs. Hoover recalled that several years ago when she was visiting a niece on S. Pickaway St. they heard a great commotion and a lot of shooting. Neighbors had alerted city police about a congregation of starlings in trees and on electric wires. Police were shooting the birds and putting the dead in baskets.

Mrs. Hoover told them in no uncertain terms they were killing martins not starlings. She said the birds would not bother the neighborhood, for long. Then she enlisted the help of a local game warden who verified Mrs. Hoover's identification of the purple martins. Sure enough the birds took flight in a day or two.

The Hoovers are interested in the fact that the Ohio State Penitentiary is a favorite place

Brehmer Says

Brehmer Greenhouses suggest that this is the time of year to check your evergreens for bagworms on spruce, arbor vitae or junipers. To kill the worms, spray with two and a half level tablespoons to a gallon of water of arsenate of lead. Bagworms do not bother yews or pines.

Don't mow your lawn too close in the heat of summer. Experiments show that your lawn will benefit, during the heat of summer, if it is not cut too close. Set your reel type mower as high as you can. The new rotary mowers are ideal. If you keep the blade sharp and adjusted for higher cutting than the old reel type. Two and a half or even three inches during the heat of summer is ideal.

The higher cutting lets the blades of grass create more shade and holds more moisture in the soil. Since the food is manufactured in the leaves of grass, the longer leaves create more food and stay a deeper green color, as well as promoting new root growth.

Loose Leaved Cabbage Is New Vegetable

Loose-leaved Chinese cabbage is a new vegetable for the American taste that has been a long time favorite in oriental countries.

Actually it can be used wherever celery is used but it is a lot easier to grow.

The stalks are crisp and succulent with the mild pungency of Chinese Cabbage.

Each plant produces 8 to 12 thick, smooth, greenish white stalks topped with dark green, spoon-shaped leaves. Stalks are 7 to 8 inches long and shaped like celery.

Enjoy this new vegetable in your relish dish or cooked. Can be planted in July for harvesting in 45 days.

is a real purple martin enthusiast since the martins arrived a month ago. In fact his martins already have three young ones.

Walter Rase has several martin houses across the road from his home. And these are in a clear space near electric wires. When he moved the houses from his shady lawn to the place across the road tenants moved in immediately.

We asked Walter Rase why some of the apartment holes were stuffed. He laughed and said martins do not like houses with two doors. This house had two-door apartments. When he closed one entry to each apartment the birds stayed.

RASE SAID that he put up a martin house near the barn one year and before he had finished tamping the soil around the pole a purple martin arrived to investigate housing possibilities.

Mrs. Rase says that Grigsbyville, Ill., is the martin capital of the United States. Every single house in this city has a martin house. And a martin magazine is published there.

If martin house holes are too big the starlings take over and if they are too small sparrows intrude.

Martins are great insect eaters. One authority says that one martin can consume 2000 mosquitoes in an evening.

The Jack Smiths on Route 159 near Kingston say they noticed quite a reduction in mosquito population the second summer after the martins arrived.

Garden Gossip

Mrs. John Mast, Route 3, Circleville has a row of pink zinnias and a row of green zinnias planted in her garden.

Mrs. Clyde Hoover has yellow delphinium blooming in her flower border. It gives the appearance of a cream colored delphinium at a distance, but close-up the bee of the flower is definitely a clear yellow.

Mrs. George Van Camp of Oakwood Place was mighty taken with the Hoover's yellow delphinium when she visited their garden.

Mrs. Hoover also has "button" lilies. Flowers appear like buttons along the spike stem. A most attractive variety.

In a recent issue of Horticulture Magazine there is an article entitled "Butterflies in Your Garden" which tells what plants attract different butterflies.

We thought of Myrtle Noggle when we read the end of the article which reminded readers that the study of live butterflies was far more rewarding than the amassing of pinned insects.

Once we told Myrtle Noggle that we'd like to bring a butterfly net to her garden to catch butterflies for a collection (confidentially we did not even get as far as the net) but Myrtle was most firm. "Not in my garden," she said, "Nobody's going to chase butterflies around here."

Jack and Judy Goode, of J. S. Goode Nursery, have the most beautiful new brick patio at their place. Judy told her husband that if he started work on the patio they must be finished by the time she entertained the Nurses Association. Nothing like a deadline! Jack had them finished.

Sue Montgomery brought home a beautiful bird with a rose colored patch on the breast which had been found dead in the Morris Evangelical United Brethren Churchyard. Her neighbor, Floyd Bartley, identified it as the rose-breasted grosbeak.

Floyd said that Vic Pontius had seen several of them together, near his home. Of Pontius the celebrated naturalist said, "He's a fine bird man".

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Garst of Albuquerque, New Mexico and their daughters are visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. Fred Minshall of Route 1, Kingston.

Mrs. Garst said that Wayside Gardens of Mentor, Ohio is a favorite mail order nursery out in New Mexico.

Gerald Kintner's parents are visiting him from Florida. They live near St. Petersburg and

Mr. Kintner has a collection of 26 hibiscus. One flower was so large they took out the measuring stick. It measured 12 inches in diameter. One of their favorites was yellow with a pink center. All are named varieties.

My sister who is summering in Spain in a northern resort city, Paseo de Butron, writes that hydrangea trees are glorious there. They are blue, pink and lavender.

The red and white petunias in the flower box in front of the Children's Shop makes a beautiful splash of color at 115 W. Main St.

The Pickaway County Garden Club did not put out the usual white petunias and red geraniums this year at the courthouse garden because they were warned that the sand-blasters were coming to clean the courthouse. The sand-blasting is in full swing now. Good thing the flowers were not planted!

Mrs. Kelson Bower, Route 1, Circleville, says her roses have been most satisfactory this season. This was a surprise because they were winter damaged almost down to the ground.

Mark Schumm, 580 N. Pickaway St., has a new security light that shines down on his rosebush. And his roses, ordinarily flowers of real grandeur, are a great disappointment. He has heard the rumor that security lights will effect roses.

An unidentified flower is considerable worry to me. Mrs. Turney Pontius has a planting of a pink spiked flowers that looks like a delicate hollyhock. She does not know its name. I wish I did.

Mrs. Tom Kyle's hollyhocks are as colorful as can be again this year. Her red hollyhocks particularly take my eye. She lives at 202 Eastmore.

Plant Marigolds Blooms in 5 Weeks

Yellow Nugget marigolds were introduced by the W. Atlee Seed Co. in 1966. The height of this variety is one foot. They germinate within ten days of planting time.

This seed company advocates planting yellow nugget marigolds now for bloom at the same time ordinary marigolds planted weeks earlier will bloom.

The Burpee Company has also introduced Golden and Orange Nugget marigolds. These are like the yellow nuggets except in color.

We are assured that these foot high marigolds will be in bloom five weeks from planting time.

Ladies' 'Unmentionables' Getting More Mentionable

NEW YORK (AP) — Nothing in fashion history has attracted as much attention to lingerie as the miniskirt.

And as sometimes happens after being in the public eye, the industry is up to all sorts of antics to make certain it does not wind up once again as under cover to underwear.

"Walkaroundables" is a word coined by Warner's Slimwear to describe one such antic among others demonstrated Tuesday at a week-long program of fall style previews called the American Designer Series.

Ignoring the fact that the outerwear industry had previously stolen their style by producing evening gowns that look like nightgowns and little dresses that look like slips, the innerwear industry blithely brought out a line of bold patterned jersey pajamas and nighties. These are for sleeping in subways, park benches or beaches when there is no room at the inns.

Unmentionables with the intent of being mentioned after being seen under garments so short they barely cover their subject were more antics. Regimental stripes on the edges of pantie girdles match the regimental stripes on knee socks. Some girdles were flag striped or painted with pretty posies so any glimpse was a fashionable contribution to the over-all picture.

Hayley's a Big Girl Now —Her Latest Fling Says So

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The more avid movie fans long have displayed a reluctance to allow their favorites to grow up. Many followers of Judy Garland still see her as the wide-eyed Dorothy of "Wizard of Oz" searching over the rainbow, rather than as a woman with more than the usual troubles of middle age.

Likewise those who have followed the career of Hayley Mills — you loved her in "Parent Trap," thrilled to her in "Summer Magic" — will find trouble adjusting to the new image in which she has cast herself, on and off the screen.

Hayley visited here after a six-city tour in which she exhibited her new self. Significantly, she has been accompanied by the coproducer-director, with his twin brother John, of her latest film, Roy Boulting, with whom she is unabashedly in love. This despite the facts that he is 53 and still married.

"The divorce has been going on for four long years," remarked Hayley, who recently turned 21. "Such things move very slowly in England."

"As for our future plans, I can't say, really," added Boulting, a slender man with hair combed over his forehead, Beatle style.

"If I were to say I can scarcely wait to be divorced so I can marry Hayley, it might very well prejudice my case. The British courts are funny that way; they like to make the final determination."

The new film, "The Family Way," also seems likely to upset the Hayley Mills fans. She has gone the way of all flesh for actresses nowadays. The film features a controversial scene in which she steps out of a bathtub and is viewed from the rear. The sequence almost caused "The Family Way" to be condemned by the National Catholic Office for Motion Pictures.

Boulting said that he had received "an impassioned telephone call" from a Warner Bros. executive, importuning him to come to New York and discuss the matter with the Catholic officials. The director was told that the 70-odd reviewers for the group thought the film was excellent, yet it could not be passed because of strictures against nudity in films.

"Then I suggest you return to your bishops and have them change the rules against nudity; I will not take out the scene," declared Boulting after due consultation.

Later he was notified that the condemned rating had been changed to "recommended for adults with reservations."

Hayley expects the new film to remove forever "the Pollyanna-Walt Disney" aura which has marked her career.

Auto Crash Kills 2

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A two-car collision at an intersection just southwest of here early Wednesday killed two young women.

They were Laura Lewis, 17, of Columbus and Mrs. Dorlene Brown, 24, Grove City.

Mrs. Brown was in a car driven by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Portia Ann Brown, 18, Columbus, who was injured. Miss Lewis was alone.

Ashville Native Named TVHS Grid Coach

Bob Hoover Picked
By Board to Replace
Vet Marion Waits

Bob Hoover has been named head football and track coach at Teays Valley High School, it was announced by Benis Lutz, executive head of the school district.

Hoover was elevated to the position after spending one year at Walnut Twp. coaching junior high football and basketball.

The Ashville native replaces Marion Waits, who resigned recently to accept an administrative position in Monroeville Schools in Huron County.

Waits came to Teays Valley in 1962 when the new school was formed by consolidating Scioto, Walnut and Ashville Schools.

HOOVER graduated from Ashville High School in 1960. He was a basketball star there, winning the Bob Bowser Award presented annually by The Herald to the Outstanding cager in the county.

BOB HOOVER
Attending Moorehead State University in Kentucky on an athletic scholarship, he graduated in 1964. Hoover was a mainstay on the Moorehead basketball team.

Following his graduation from college, he taught and coached for two years at Felicly-Franklin School in Clermont County.

In addition to his coaching assignments, he will teach science and physical education. Hoover will be an assistant on the basketball coaching staff. Also slated for duty on the coaching staff is Daniel Evans, a graduate of Ohio State University recently employed by the board.

Exhibition Games Slated At Ted Lewis

A full schedule of exhibition games is planned by the Circleville Youth Baseball Program this weekend.

Starting the action with a twinbill 6:30 p. m. Saturday are the Little League Stars. They will play the Brookshire Hornets.

At 2 p. m. Sunday, the Pony League All-Stars will play the Tiger Comets of Columbus in a doubleheader. Shortly after that game, the Babe Ruth All Stars will play two games with Chillicothe K of C.

Game time for the Babe Ruth Stars should be about 7 p. m. according to Bill Thomas, youth baseball president.

The coaches of the Little League Stars have called a practice session 2 p. m. Friday to prepare for the weekend tilt.

There are some 2,500 different types of minerals.

Annual Grid Drills Begin For Pro Teams

Taylor, Hornung
Head for Saints;
Packers Keep Starr

By MIKE RECHT

Associated Press Sports Writer

Jim Taylor and Paul Hornung, the twin trademarks of Green Bay greatness, headed south instead of north as the Packers prepared to open training camp without them for the first time in 10 years.

But quarterback Bart Starr, the most valuable player in the National Football League in 1966, is back after signing his 12th Green Bay contract Wednesday.

Drills for 37 Packer rookies began today, with 38 veterans reporting by Saturday, as NFL and American Football League clubs began preparing for a season that will run until the All-Star games in late January.

Both Taylor and Hornung, who helped the Packers to five division titles and four world championships, will be wearing the colors of the New Orleans Saints, the NFL's newest team. Taylor played out his option at Green Bay to sign with the Saints and Hornung, bothered by a pinched nerve, was taken in the expansion draft.

Starr, who led the Packers to the world title last year, admits the two will be missed, but said the Packers still will have an effective blocking and running game with veterans Ben Wilson, Elijah Pitts and last year's bonus twins, Donny Anderson and Jim Grabowski.

Coach Joe Kuharich of the Philadelphia Eagles of the NFL said he assumed that he would be without one of the Eagles' long-time backfield stars, Timmy Brown.

"Until Timmy gets back here and clarifies his position, we're going under the assumption he won't be with us," Kuharich said.

But Brown, who reportedly has been offered a television and motion picture contract, said "I will report to training camp and play for the Eagles this year," when contacted Tuesday in Hawaii. He said if the television and movie plans work out, the contract would not be effective until next January.

The Los Angeles Rams still expected quarterback Roman Gabriel to be on hand as they opened camp today for rookies and selected veterans. Gabriel's return apparently hinges on dismissal of a $200,000 suit brought by him against the Rams and Oakland Raiders of the AFL.

He contended the Raiders breached a contract he signed with them last year and that the Rams interfered with his contractual relations with Oakland.

Phil Verleger, attorney for the Rams, said he had been assured by Gabriel's attorney, Edward Masry, that he would ask for dismissal of the suit.

Veteran Charlie Hennigan will be one of those missing when the San Diego Chargers' veterans report this week. The 32-year-old flanker, who underwent a knee operation before he was obtained on waivers from the Houston Oilers, failed a physical examination. He set an AFL mark in 1964 by catching 101 passes.

Sabotin Corners Lead in Amateur

By HAL PARIS

Associated Press Sports Writer

CLEVELAND (AP)—Modest Lalu Sabotin, the Warren fire captain who wears the state public links crown, set out today in quest of the Ohio Amateur title.

The 37-year-old Sabotin registered his second straight 72 Wednesday for a 36-hole total of 144 and a one-stroke advantage in the state golfing classic.

Sabotin snared the lead by rolling in a 10-foot putt for a deuce on the final hole. He promptly retreated to the Beechmont Country Club practice green.

"I want to shoot better than this, I'm just not putting well," Sabotin complained.

The rangy, dark-haired power hitter who won the Publinx in 1963 and again last year, three-putted three holes and finished with five bogeys and four birds.

Schmidt and Guardiola came in with one-under-par 70s to go with earlier 75s for 145 totals.

Only two strokes back of the pace setter was 1965 Amateur king Dick Flockenzier of Mansfield, who added a hot 69 to a first round 77. Also at 146 were Bob Afton of Columbus with a pair of 73s and Jackie Frost of Portsmouth, who latched a 74 on to a 72.

Still in contention at 147 were John Fisher Jr. of Dayton, who had the tournament's best score with a 68, and Art Hudnutt of Elyria, who rang up a 74 after an opening 73.

Sixty-one competitors from the original field of 190 shot 135 or better and survived the 36-hole trim.

Among the casualties were 1960 king Dan Carmichael of Columbus, who bowed out at 78-81-159, and former state scholastic champ Yank Heisler of Ravenna, who opened with a 75 but had to quit because of a wrenched back.

VFW Pounds Hits for Win

VFW pounded out 17 hits as the Vets topped Savings Bank, 17-9, in the Pony League Wednesday.

Terry Leasure started mound chores for the winners. After two frames and seven hits, he was pulled in favor of Rick Blankenship who finished, allowing only one hit in five frames.

Jim Neal and Harold Smith split mound duties for Savings Bank. Neal lasted five, giving up all 17 VFW hits.

Savings Bank was packed with power. Jim Neal and Mike Fowler each homered for the losers. Dan Garrett doubled.

Rick Blankenship tripled for VFW. Mike Hamrick doubled. The other 15 hits were held up at first base.

Area Horsemen Have Busy Night at Races

Locally owned or driven harness horses went postward 13 times in ten races Wednesday at Scioto Downs, placing second two times and third two times.

Starting the parade of local drivers was Jim Mace, with Naughty Widow in the non-betting preliminary race. Third in a mile that was paced in 2:11, it was the first of six drives for Mace.

In other heats he drove Hal McKnight to a seventh place finish in the second, was behind Naughty Jane, finishing second in the fourth race, reined Pink Taffy to a sixth place finish in the sixth race, Fair Indian to a seventh place finish in the seventh race, and Petal Hanover to an eighth in the ninth race.

Ralph Strous, Salter Creek Twp. owner-driver-trainer, finished second with Ginger Dawn in the third race.

In the fourth, Ernie Martin was in the sulky when Circle All finished sixth and Porter Martin was behind Circle Amy who finished fourth.

Forrest Short was seventh in the fifth heat, driving Mary K. Creed and was third in the ninth with Honor's Kit. The latter horse is owned by E. W. Strawser and Norman R. Anderson of Circleville.

Jim Arledge, driving Berry Bell, the three year old roan trotting mare owned by Dick and Joe Asher of New Holland, was second in the ninth race.

Also entered last night was Miss Caleb Van, owned by Virgilina Van Camp and trained by George Van Camp. The three year old daughter of Caleb was eighth with Joe Lighthill driving.

Short is the busiest of local drivers tonight. He will rein Round Town in a non-betting preliminary heat, drive Sara Ann Scotch in the fifth race and Tweedy Time in the sixth race which is the second division of the Challenge Stakes.

Arledge is driving Acewag Captain tonight in the seventh race.

Braves' Aaron Named Player of the Month

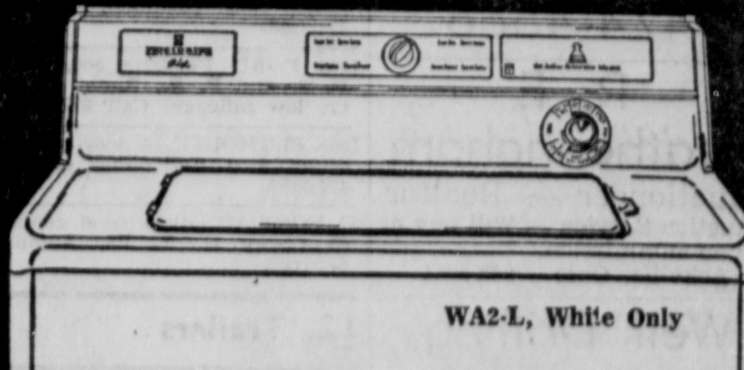

CINCINNATI (AP) — Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves was named the National League's player of the month for June—but he had a close contest with Ron Santo. The Braves' outfielder beat the Chicago Cubs' third baseman by a 17-14 vote of the 50 baseball writers and sportscasters on the panel.

Darn Flashwick
Tops Scioto Card

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Darn Flashwick came from behind at the half-mile pole to win the $1,000 featured race at Scioto Downs Wednesday night, doing the mile in 2:06 4-5.

The 4-year-old daughter of Darn Flash, owned by Ray Counterman of Celina, paid $6.80, $4 and $3.

The 4-7 daily double combination of Nobbey Robby and Gold Carpet returned $128.

Taylor, Hornung
Head for Saints;
Packers Keep Starr

By MIKE RECHT

Associated Press Sports Writer
Jim Taylor and Paul Hornung, the twin trademarks of Green Bay greatness, headed south instead of north as the Packers prepared to open training camp without them for the first time in 10 years.

But quarterback Bart Starr, the most valuable player in the National Football League in 1966, is back after signing his 12th Green Bay contract Wednesday.

Drills for 37 Packer rookies began today, with 38 veterans reporting by Saturday, as NFL and American Football League clubs began preparing for a season that will run until the All-Star games in late January.

Both Taylor and Hornung, who helped the Packers to five division titles and four world championships, will be wearing the colors of the New Orleans Saints, the NFL's newest team. Taylor played out his option at Green Bay to sign with the Saints and Hornung, bothered by a pinched nerve, was taken in the expansion draft.

Starr, who led the Packers to the world title last year, admits the two will be missed, but said the Packers still will have an effective blocking and running game with veterans Ben Wilson, Elijah Pitts and last year's bonus twins, Donny Anderson and Jim Grabowski.

Coach Joe Kuharich of the Philadelphia Eagles of the NFL said he assumed that he would be without one of the Eagles' long-time backfield stars, Timmy Brown.

"Until Timmy gets back here and clarifies his position, we're going under the assumption he won't be with us," Kuharich said.

But Brown, who reportedly has been offered a television and motion picture contract, said "I will report to training camp and play for the Eagles this year," when contacted Tuesday in Hawaii. He said if the television and movie plans work out, the contract would not be effective until next January.

The Los Angeles Rams still expected quarterback Roman Gabriel to be on hand as they opened camp today for rookies and selected veterans. Gabriel's return apparently hinges on dismissal of a $200,000 suit brought by him against the Rams and Oakland Raiders of the AFL.

He contended the Raiders breached a contract he signed with them last year and that the Rams interfered with his contractual relations with Oakland.

Phil Verleger, attorney for the Rams, said he had been assured by Gabriel's attorney, Edward Masry, that he would ask for dismissal of the suit.

Veteran Charlie Hennigan will be one of those missing when the San Diego Chargers' veterans report this week. The 32-year-old flanker, who underwent a knee operation before he was obtained on waivers from the Houston Oilers, failed a physical examination. He set an AFL mark in 1964 by catching 101 passes.

Sabotin Corners
Lead in Amateur

By HAL PARIS

Associated Press Sports Writer
CLEVELAND (AP)— Modest Lalu Sabotin, the Warren fire captain who wears the state public links crown, set out today in quest of the Ohio Amateur title.

The 37-year-old Sabotin registered his second straight 72 Wednesday for a 36-hole total of 144 and a one-stroke advantage in the state golfing classic.

Sabotin snared the lead by rolling in a 10-foot putt for a deuce on the final hole. He promptly retreated to the Beechmont Country Club practice green.

"I want to shoot better than this, I'm just not putting well," Sabotin complained.

The rangy, dark-haired power hitter who won the Publix in 1963 and again last year, three-putted three holes and finished with five bogeys and four birds.

The last birdie gave him his thin edge over Fritz Schmidt, an engineer from Columbus, and Dick Guardiola, a 30-year-old public relations man from Cleveland.

Playing in his second Amateur, Sabotin could become the second public links player to cop the premier event. Carl Unis of Cleveland took the honor in 1964.

Schmidt and Guardiola came in with one-under-par 70s to go with earlier 75s for 145 totals.

Only two strokes back of the pace setter was 1965 Amateur king Dick Flockenzier of Mansfield, who added a hot 69 to a first round 77. Also at 146 were Bob Afton of Columbus with a pair of 73s and Jackie Frost of Portsmouth, who latched a 74 on to a 72.

Still in contention at 147 were John Fisher Jr. of Dayton, who had the tournament's best score with a 68, and Art Hudnutt of Elyria, who rang up a 74 after an opening 73.

It was a rough day for the opening round leaders. Steve Pipoly of Youngstown skied to an 80 after shooting a 70. Dan Silverberg of Cleveland, another 70 shooter, soared to a 78.

Sixty-one competitors from the original field of 190 shot 135 or better and survived the 36-hole trim.

Among the casualties were 1960 king Dan Carmichael of Columbus, who bowed out at 78-81-159, and former state scholastic champ Yank Heiser of Ravenna, who opened with a 75 but had to quit because of a wrenched back.

VFW Pounds
Hits for Win

VFW pounded out 17 hits as the Vets topped Savings Bank, 17-9, in the Pony League Wednesday.

Terry Leasure started mound chores for the winners. After two frames and seven hits, he was pulled in favor of Rick Blankenship who finished, allowing only one hit in five frames.

Jim Neal and Harold Smith split mound duties for Savings Bank. Neal lasted five, giving up all 17 VFW hits.

Area Horsemen
Have Busy
Night at Races

Locally owned or driven harness horses went postward 13 times in ten races Wednesday at Scioto Downs, placing second two times and third two times.

Starting the parade of local drivers was Jim Mace, with Naughty Widow in the non-betting preliminary race. Third in a mile that was paced in 2:11, it was the first of six drives for Mace.

In other heats he drove Hal McKnight to a seventh place finish in the second, was behind Naughty Jane, finishing second in the fourth race, reined Pink Taffy to a sixth place finish in the sixth race, Fair Indian to a seventh place finish in the seventh race, and Petal Hanover to an eighth in the ninth race.

Ralph Strous, Salter Creek Twp. owner-driver-trainer, finished second with Ginger Dawn in the third race.

In the fourth, Ernie Martin was in the sulky when Circle All finished sixth and Porter Martin was behind Circle Amy who finished fourth.

Forrest Short was seventh in the fifth heat, driving Mary K. Creed and was third in the ninth with Honor's Kit. The latter horse is owned by E. W. Strawser and Norman R. Anderson of Circleville.

Jim Arledge, driving Berry Bell, the three year old roan trotting mare owned by Dick and Joe Asher of New Holland, was second in the ninth race.

Also entered last night was Miss Caleb Van, owned by Virginia Van Camp and trained by George Van Camp. The three year old daughter of Caleb was eighth with Joe Lighthill driving.

Short is the busiest of local drivers tonight. He will rein Round Town in a non-betting preliminary heat, drive Sara Ann Scotch in the fifth race and Tweedy Time in the sixth race which is the second division of the Challenge Stakes. Arledge is driving Aceway Captain tonight in the seventh race.

Braves' Aaron Named
Player of the Month

CINCINNATI (AP) — Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves was named the National League's player of the month for June—but he had a close contest with Ron Santo.

The Braves' outfielder beat the Chicago Cubs' third baseman by a 17-14 vote of the 50 baseball writers and sportscasters on the panel.

Angels To Get Next Crack At Dethroning AL Kings

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

A week ago Minnesota's rapping Twins arrived in Chicago to challenge the White Sox American League lead in a four-game series.

A split kept Eddie Stanky's crew on top, and now it's California's turn to take a shot at the leaders.

Sam McDowell softened the White Sox up Wednesday night with a six-hitter as Cleveland stopped Chicago 5-3. It was the only game scheduled in the American League and shaved the Sox' lead to 1½ games over Detroit, two games over Minnesota and four over California. In the only National League game played Wednesday, Mike Shannon cracked a two-run eighth-inning homer that lifted first-place St. Louis to a 4-3 victory over Pittsburgh.

The Angels bring a six-game winning streak into Chicago tonight and will have their new ace, George Brunet, ready to face the White Sox.

California spent much of May in the American League cellar but since June 7, Bill Rigney's team has spun off a 25-8 record and zoomed six spots in the standings.

Brunet, who dropped nine straight after winning the season's opener, is 6-2 during the hot streak and 7-11 over-all. Joel Horlen, 10-2, opposes the Angels.

Stanky used six pitchers trying to beat the Indians Wednesday, but Cleveland scored five runs in the first three innings and that was enough for McDowell, 6-7.

Sudden Sam, 6-7, threaded his way through trouble and relied on his strikeout pitch for the big out. He walked the bases-full in the fifth inning but then struck out Tom McCraw and Tommie Agee for two of his eight strikeouts.

Max Alvis ignited a two-run Indian rally in the first with a double and then cracked his 11th home run of the year in the second.

Tommy John, 8-6, was knocked out in the first inning and took the loss.

Shannon's eighth-inning shot brought the Cardinals from behind and enabled St. Louis to open a four-game bulge over Chicago in the National League race.

The Pirates had knocked out Dick Hughes and seized the lead in the top of the eighth on Gene Alley's two-run homer, a triple by Jerry May and Manny Mota's sacrifice fly.

But Orlando Cepeda opened the Cardinals' eighth with a single, knocking out Steve Blass, the Pittsburgh starter. Juan Pizarro retired Tim McCarver before Pete Mikkelsen relieved and Shannon cracked his sixth home run.

Shannon had singled across St. Louis' first run in the sixth as the Cardinals snapped the scoreless duel between Blass and Hughes.

California Won't Let Clay Fight

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Heavyweight boxer Cassius Clay was denied Wednesday a license to fight a bout in California to benefit poor children, Negro and white, in the South.

The California Athletic Commission voted 4-0 against Clay's application for a boxing license, with one member abstaining.

Clay, sitting calmly and seriously before the commission, had no immediate comment, except to say that he would not try to hold the fight outside California.

Clay was stripped of his title by the World Boxing Association and the powerful New York State Athletic Commission after he was convicted in a federal court in Houston, on a charge of refusing to be drafted into the armed forces.

Clay faces a five-year prison sentence if his appeal of the conviction is denied.

California's boxing rules deny any fighter a license if he has been convicted of a felony and even if he is out on bond pending an appeal.

Oakland boxing promoter Henry Winston said he had hoped to stage the fight in the Oakland Coliseum. Clay said he would pledge all his proceeds, except for $100, to a charitable organization to buy food for hungry children in Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia.

At the same meeting, the commission deferred action on the license application of former heavyweight champion Sonny Liston.

Commissioners said they wanted to check Liston's status with the New York commission before deciding. Liston, 35, was denied a California permit in 1962 on grounds of unsavory association by his managers and handlers.

Court Denies 10-Year-Old Right To Vie in Ladies PGA

SUTTON, Mass. (AP)—The adult touring pros had the course to themselves as 10-year-old Beverly Klass watched from the sidelines today in the opening round of the Ladies PGA Championship at Pleasant Valley Country Club.

A field of 52 was set to tee off in the $17,500, 72-hole tournament after Beverly's hopes of competing were dashed by a Superior Court ruling.

Judge John H. Meagher denied Wednesday a petition filed by the youngster's father, Jack Klass of Woodland Hills, Calif., which would have forced LPGA officials to accept Beverly's entry.

Klass, a contractor, had filed the petition, claiming the girl was being deprived of her rights. He said she has played in three other tournaments on the LPGA tour and regular members were jealous of her.

The LPGA voted last week to change its regulations and bar anyone under 18 from playing in one of its tournaments. A spokesman said the action was aimed directly at Beverly, who has won only $31.

The LPGA championship field was headed by Mickey Wright, the gals' all-time top money winner who won the Lady Carling in Baltimore last Sunday. Miss Wright has won the LPGA title four times.

Education Tax Bill's Wording May Boost Income

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The administration's tax increase for education bill might close loopholes in the sales tax law that would boost the measure's anticipated revenue from $300 million to about $500 million, two former state tax commissioners say.

They testified Wednesday before a Senate Ways and Means subcommittee. The group headed by Sen. Harry V. Jump R-13 Huron is considering revisions in the measure designed originally to produce $300 million over ten years — all of it to be earmarked for education.

Former commissioners Stanley J. Bowers, Gerald Donahue and Emory Glander referred to language in the measure which redefines "manufacturing" to determine what purchases by businesses are entitled to the sales tax's so-called direct use exemption.

Court decisions have spread the exemptions to include many items over the years although some attorneys argue it was the original intent of the legislature to exempt only those items used directly in the manufacturing of a product.

The proposed new language would do just this, Glander said, noting that manufacturing would only include a process that "transforms or converts" an item into a different state from which it originally existed.

The "only items that would be exempt under this language are those that become subject to the 3 per cent tax under the pending bill. They included such things as conveyor belts, lift trucks and other types of interplant transportation devices, gasoline, water to produce steam, generators, lighting equipment, and machinery used for repair and maintenance.

Vorster's New South African Policy Hit by Conservatives

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Prime Minister Balthazar J. Vorster's "softer approach" toward some of South Africa's problems is bringing him trouble from elements of his own party.

Vorster has headed the government for nine months. He has been trying to improve this country's image abroad against critics of the apartheid—racial segregation—policy that prevails here.

He represents the Nationalist party, which has been in power since 1948. It is based on political dominance by the Afrikaner section of the electorate, those of Dutch ancestry who often have lived with people of English heritage.

Now some of the Nationalists are complaining of "liberalistic tendencies and unfaithfulness to the Afrikaner cause."

Vorster took over the premiership last September after Hendrik F. Verwoerd was assassinated.

For years Afrikaners favored Verwoerd's indifference to condemnation elsewhere of this country's racial policy. They were solidly behind his efforts to entrench Afrikaner leadership in South Africa's political, economic and cultural fields.

Verwoerd's reluctance to tone down the rigid laws of apartheid or bow to world criticism after the Sharpeville massacre of 1960 brought him high esteem among the Afrikaner group.

During the past nine months Vorster has endeavored to erase the "jailer" image thrust on him by some English-language newspapers. He has encouraged Africa's immediate neighbors, Lesotho, Botswana and Swaziland, all landlocked territories economically dependent on the republic and all led by blacks.

Some staunch upholders of apartheid view any divergence as a softening of the Afrikaner resolve to maintain complete racial segregation and an undermining of Afrikaner dominance in the country's affairs.

Those dedicated to the Verwoerd policy of total Afrikaner domination question the desirability of uncontrolled immigration, which is boosting the English-speaking population and some religious groups competitive with the Dutch Reformed Church.

There is discontent at Vorster's attempts to bring liberal-minded English speakers into the Nationalist fold.

Welfare Workers Attend Meeting

Miss Pauline E. Roese, Pickaway County Welfare Director; Mrs. Waneta Norman, case-work supervisor, and Miss Donna Jean Walker, are attending a meeting today called by Marvin O. Adams, Deputy Director in the State Welfare Department Central District.

The meeting was called to discuss the revised medical assistance program to become effective July 15, 1967.

Goodyear Plant Walkout Looms

Settlement Effort So Far Fruitless

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The largest of the rubber industry's Big Five producers, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., will be struck shortly after midnight tonight if progress is not made in negotiations between Goodyear and the United Rubber Workers, according to union officials.

No progress has been reported yet.

The strike would throw another 21,000 URW members into the picket lines, making a total of 76,000 on strike.

Struck April 21 were Uniroyal, Inc., Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. and B. F. Goodrich Co. General Tire and Rubber Co. was struck June 21.

A URW Local 2 spokesman at the Akron plant of Goodyear said strike captains have been named and pickets have been assigned in case the shutdown comes. If Local 2 walks out, 8,300 URW members will be affected here.

However, Goodyear has four tire-making subsidiaries in four states that would not be affected by a strike.

Goodyear has been operating on a day-to-day basis since the other companies were struck.

Automakers, UAW Unions In Tug of War

DETROIT (AP) — The labor contract tug of war is fully under way between the United Auto Workers union and Big Three automakers from whom it demands a share of profits and a guaranteed annual income.

After opening contract negotiations with the three biggest car manufacturers during the last three days, the UAW today began bargaining with American Motors Corp.

Three-year contracts covering nearly 700,000 union workers expire Sept. 6 at General Motors, Ford and Chrysler. The AMC pact runs out on Oct. 16.

A broad sketch of the guaranteed annual income demand emerged from talks Wednesday. UAW negotiators said they plan to offer a model plan next Wednesday to GM.

Leonard Woodcock, UAW vice president, said the union is willing to attain the guaranteed income through a combination of existing Supplemental Unemployment Benefits, state unemployment compensation and "other sources." He did not specify the other sources.

Congo Move Seen Costly to LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson's dispatch of three U. S. planes to the Congo may have cost him political ground he gained in following a cautious course in the Middle East crisis.

After the quick Israeli victory over the Arabs there was demonstrable satisfaction in the country that the President had prevented any indirect American involvement in the war.

But Johnson's unheralded action in dispatching transport planes and about 15 men to the rebellion-torn Congo in response to a request by President Joseph D. Mobutu soured the congenial atmosphere, at least in Congress.

Critics said Johnson acted precipitously to poke into the domestic affairs of a country where the United States had no vital interests and where it was not its primary responsibility to keep the peace.

One result, in the opinion of influential members of Congress, could be a slow-down in any executive move at this time to enlarge the American military commitment in Vietnam.

They argue that Johnson, always keenly aware of the trend of congressional and public opinion, can only conclude that a great number of Americans are overly tired of having the United States police the world.

This attitude could be reflected in public reaction against any spectacular move to intensify the Vietnam war by substantially increasing troop commitments or expanding the bombing.

The expectation in Congress is that Johnson will move only in stages to give Gen. William C. Westmoreland more of the troops the general says he needs and that there will be no perceptible change in bombing patterns for the time being.

Senatorial supporters of the President's Vietnam course joined his critics in making it clear they want no more Vietnamese by criticizing his decision to give even token help to Mobutu in his fight with rebels and white mercenaries.

This widespread concern was translated into action Wednesday when the Senate Foreign Relations Committee tentatively knocked $120 million out of the $600 million military aid program proposed by Johnson.

Chemist Says He's Invented Filter That Really Works

NEW YORK (AP)—Columbia University said today it has been given a controlling interest in a new cigarette filter which it says sharply reduces tar and nicotine in tobacco smoke but lets the tobacco flavor through.

The university said it would make the filter available immediately throughout the world in an attempt to help smokers help themselves by reducing by two-thirds the tar and nicotine they inhale.

Noting that cigarette consumption has risen in the United States despite warnings it presented a health hazard, Dr. Grayson Kirk, Columbia president, said he hoped the new filter might lead to a significant lessening of what he called one of the world's major health problems.

Robert L. Strickman, a New Jersey chemist, developed the filter after years of experimenting in his home laboratory. He gave the patent rights to Columbia.

As word of the development spread through the financial community Wednesday, tobacco stocks on the New York Stock Exchange rose sharply with closing prices up as much as $3.50.

The filter—a tasteless, white crystalline synthetic—is said to have no effect on the taste of a cigarette and to cost no more than filters now in use. Strickman claims it cuts the intake of tar and nicotine by more than two-thirds.

However, no absolute claim is made that the new filter will reduce the incidence of cancer and other diseases. Columbia is known to be hopeful of such a result and more medical tests are planned.

Strickman, 56, is president of Allied Testing and Research Laboratories in Hillsdale, N.J. He said he pursued development of the filter because both of his parents died of cancer and he felt cigarettes were a cancer-causing agent.

He said his filter works on a different principle than the conventional filters which merely trap tars and other solid matter. The new filter utilizes a polymer substance to transform smoke and residue into a harmless substance, he said.

Strickman, who lives with his wife in River Vale, N.J., said he is himself a smoker, puffing cigars and up to a pack of cigarettes a day. He estimated that the new filter could be on the market by fall.

In accepting the rights to the filter, Columbia is said to have stipulated that it be made available to all companies with no exclusive rights.

Copper Kettle Stolen

Mrs. Cecil Eveland, Tarleton, reported to the Sheriff's Dept. that someone had stolen a copper kettle that was being used as a planter from her front porch.

The flowers were removed from the kettle and the dirt emptied on the porch.

Harsha Urges Anti-Riot Law

Congressman William H. Harsha, 6th District representative, co-sponsor of anti-riot legislation, urged Wednesday that Congress adopt the "Anti-Riot Bill."

Harsha stated, "The bill is aimed at those who travel from state to state or who use the mail or other facilities of interstate commerce with intent to incite street violence and rioting and who thereby not only threaten the domestic peace and tranquility but transgress upon the rights of law-abiding citizens."

"The intent of legislation is to supplement, not to take the place of local law enforcement," Harsha added. "Generally, the most immediate and effective means of riot control, riot prevention and punishment of rioters rest with state and local police and officials. This proposed law will substantially assist state and local authorities in keeping peace and protecting the public safety."

"With its stiff penalties of $10,000 fine and up to five years imprisonment, it could well have the effect of preventing riots and destruction of property to the extent they are caused by outsiders," Harsha concluded.

Ohio Astronaut Savors Moon Trip

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — If an Ohioan is to be the first man on the moon, he will make the trip by 1970, says astronaut Neil A. Armstrong of Wapakoneta.

Despite the tragic Apollo fire which claimed the lives of three fellow astronauts and the time lost on the project, "the delay will get us along the road to the moon much faster," he added.

Armstrong, here Wednesday night for the second International Symposium of Nucleonics in Aerospace, told reporters at a news conference that although "the accident cost us valuable time... we hope to gain some of that back by making up on safety factors."

When asked about reports that he wants to be the first man on the moon, Armstrong said:

"Keep the rumor going. I'd enjoy being the first man back."

Armstrong, command pilot of the Gemini 8 mission, said the National Aeronautics and Space Administration still hopes to launch its first lunar exploration Apollo flight early next year. He explained that beefed up efforts to make space flights safer also will make them more efficient, increasing the possibility that man will reach the moon in 1970.

Some 450 scientists, engineers and technicians attending Wednesday's session heard a report that a lightweight unit to reclaim human wastes for space travelers has been perfected.

The system, using radioisotopes as its heat source, is capable of reclaiming 93 per cent of the water in body wastes and changing it into potable water.

"This is the first known time that an aerospace life support system has been thermally powered by a radioisotope heat source," said Albert B. Heard and Courtney A. Metzger of the Aerospace Medical Research Laboratory at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base.

"Longtime aerospace missions planned for the future dictate the recovery of potable water for drinking and for re-constituting dried food. This water will be recovered from urine, perspiration and the vapors expelled through the crewmen's breathing, the two space scientists said in a report.

Seek Woman's Identity

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The badly decomposed body of a woman was found Wednesday at the bottom of a 175-foot ravine on the grounds of Hawthorn State Hospital in Sagamore Hills.

The woman was not immediately identified.

A highway patrolman said the body may have been that of a woman who escaped and has been missing from the hospital since June 20.

Bike Stolen; Recovered

Goldie Dearth, 139 York St., reported to City Police that her son's bicycle had been stolen from Ted Lewis Park.

The bicycle was recovered along Route 511 by Ptl. Richard Anderson Wednesday.

"Keep the rumor going. I'd enjoy being the first man back."

Armstrong, command pilot of the Gemini 8 mission, said the National Aeronautics and Space Administration still hopes to launch its first lunar exploration Apollo flight early next year. He explained that beefed up efforts to make space flights safer also will make them more efficient, increasing the possibility that man will reach the moon in 1970.

Some 450 scientists, engineers and technicians attending Wednesday's session heard a report that a lightweight unit for reclaiming human wastes for space travelers has been perfected.

The system, using radioisotopes as its heat source, is capable of reclaiming 93 per cent of the water in body wastes and changing it into potable water.

"This is the first known time that an aerospace life support system has been thermally powered by a radioisotope heat source," said Albert B. Heard and Courtney A. Metzger of the Aerospace Medical Research Laboratory at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base.

"Longtime aerospace missions planned for the future dictate the recovery of potable water for drinking and for reconstituting dried food. This water will be recovered from urine, perspiration and the vapors expelled through the crewmen's breathing, the two space scientists said in a report.

Seek Woman's Identity

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The badly decomposed body of a woman was found Wednesday at the bottom of a 175-foot ravine on the grounds of Hawthorn State Hospital in Sagamore Hills.

The woman was not immediately identified.

A highway patrolman said the body may have been that of a woman who escaped and has been missing from the hospital since June 20.
